Foreword

All things must end, even our happy school days at St. Mary's. To perpetuate the memory of those unforgettable years, we have tried to preserve in the pages of this book, persons and events which have combined to make our school days the happiest of our lives.

Days of labor and fun and even a few of sorrow have gone into these four years but the balance shows that joy has abounded to such a degree that in the future when trials come to us, we can open this book and draw hope and courage from its abundant store.

Time's ceaseless course must roll on and carry us along with it. Before we leave our loved St. Mary's, we pledge our loyalty to Our Blessed Mother and to our teachers who have worked so patiently with us. We ask Our Lady to take them and us under her lovely Blue Mantle and to guide us safely through our course until we meet in Heaven.

Alter Christus

For the past two years, it has been our profound privilege and blessing to have as our beloved Pastor, Father Foran. Father Foran, it can truly be said, is a man of great learning and piety. His only aim is to bring every student here at St. Mary's nearer to God and our eternal goal. He is striving ever to imprint upon our souls the indelible marks of love, honor, obedience, and the fear of God. His ardent love of learning and education, together with his great piety and devotion serve as an inspiration to all with whom he comes in contact. In short, Father Foran is, as every true priest, an "alter Christus."

His frequent talks are based almost entirely upon insistence on right living. "Esto Vir" and "Esto Mulier" are Latin quotations which he has oft repeated. He has instilled into us the true principles of an ideal Catholic boy or girl, which we hope to carry with us as we journey on the road of life.

Any undertaking begun here at St. Mary's is immediately supported by him, no matter what the sacrifice. In future years, when we look back fondly upon our school days, our greatest joy will be to recall the memory of our kind Pastor, our learned teacher, our spiritual guide, and our faithful friend, Father Foran.

"Thou, O man of God, hath pursued justice, piety, faith, charity, patience, meekness, fighting the good fight."

Tribute to the Sisters Of St. Joseph

In the mad world in which we find ourselves today, where hatred, jealousy, greed and selfishness hold sway, it is refreshing to come in daily contact with those whose lives are devoted to the love of God and man, who have sacrificed the honors and wealth of the world and have given their very lives for the service of their neighbors.

Those who have never attended a Catholic School can never realize what this constant environment of sanctity does for us. The simple act of entering a classroom in the morning to greet and be greeted by a nun, in our case a Sister of St. Joseph, gives us a thrill of happiness. The very habit these nuns wear preaches a sermon of peace and joy, of happiness and brotherly love.

Now that our school days are over, we realize as never before how fortunate we have been to have had the special privilege of receiving a Catholic education under the guidance of the Sisters of St. Joseph. Reflecting on the fleeting, happy high school days we now marvel at the Christlike patience, the tireless industry and the conspicuous holiness of our teachers. They have fulfilled the double duty of teacher and adviser, ever ready to help us in our difficulties and encourage us in our undertakings.

As for payment, our Sisters look for no earthly recompense other than the satisfaction that comes to them when the boys and girls of St. Mary's, leaving school, carry into the world a standard of right living which they have labored so hard to cultivate.

It remains for us, the Class of '44, now about to part from our dear friends and teachers, to resolve that their sacrifices shall not be in vain and that we shall carry high and proudly the banner of our Alma Mater.

LADY LOVELY IN BLUE

The statue of Our Blessed Lady holding the Child Jesus in her arms is a familiar sight in the lower hall at St. Mary's. It stands in its place, directly across from the office as it has for years, but I am sure that if some of our graduates were to walk through the hall today, they would notice immediately the change that has taken place within the past year.

This image of Our Blessed Mother has looked down with loving eyes upon many classes at St. Mary's. She has smiled upon timid Freshmen and eighth graders who have come into the hall for the first time, each wearing a look of wonder. And she has looked with pity upon the Seniors, so reluctant to leave her protective gaze. And because she has been for so long a witness to these little events, gradually age had dulled the brightness of her veil and her beautiful face lost some of its appeal.

We all noticed with regret this deterioration but that did not help matters. It took the touch of an artist to restore Our Lady to her pristine glory. Sister Rose Agnes began the work and with loving hands she worked long hours while we eagerly watched her progress.

Mary still takes her stand in the hall, lovelier than ever and when we pass by we look at her and murmur a little prayer to the Lovely Lady dressed in Blue.

Class Poem

One day in September
Far and away,
A group of young students
Wended their way
Through the doors of St.
 Mary's
As Freshmen we went,
Toward being good students
Our thoughts were bent,

We applied ourselves daily
And within the year,
We were the pride of our
 Teachers, everywhere,
We engaged in games and sports
With a will,
And distinguished ourselves
By our swiftness and skill,

Swiftly and sadly
The year rolled around,
As Sophomores
We tread the ground.
Our feats in game and sport
 And Class
Our previous record
Did surpass.

Still another year sped by,
And we found ourselves
In our third year
Our record here remained
 The same,
And all who knew us
Proclaimed our fame.

And now they've gone,
Those swift-passing days,
And soon will come
The parting of ways,
With aching hearts
And tearful eyes,
We bid our final, sad,
"Goodbyes."

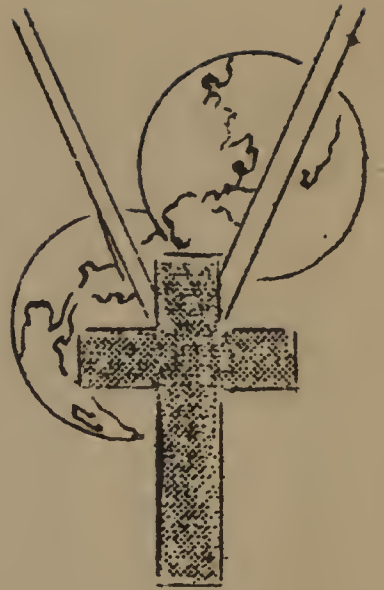

We know we are entering
A world at war
And all of us soon
Will be called to the fore,
We leave our school days
To begin a life
In a world full of sadness,
Sorrow, and strife.

We know that our childhood
Days have passed,
And our adulthood has come
At last,
With hearts full of mem'ries,
We bid fond adieu
To the Priests and Sisters
And our Classmates, too.

Frances Flaherty.

Crusaders for Education

The membership of St. Mary's School would take a drop if it were not for the out-of-town pupils. Not only does St. Mary's provide a good, sound Catholic education for the children of this Parish, but also offers this advantage to all the surrounding districts.

The hearty response to this invitation is a tribute to the Catholic Pastors in and around Milford. These zealous workers in the vineyard of the Lord are loyal boosters for St. Mary's and are always encouraging by word and financial assistance.

Among our most constant friends is Rev. John P. Donahue, of Sacred Heart Parish, Hopedale. For many years, Fr. Donahue was the Principal of St. Mary's High School and well did he discharge the duties of his office. No matter what the undertaking, he contributed his all in behalf of its success. Father Donahue still continues to be our most loyal friend.

Few words can be said about Rev. Raymond Della Porta, Sacred Heart Parish, Milford, for he has been in his present position a very short time. The many students belonging to his Parish, who go to St. Mary's have, however, helped to establish the good opinion which we have for him.

Father Francis McKoan of St. Mary's Parish, Uxbridge, is a staunch supporter of Catholic education and consequently, he is a staunch supporter of St. Mary's. To him we owe the furtherance of the kindred spirit which exists between his Parish and ours.

For many years, Rev. Henry J. McCormick of Holy Angels Parish, Upton, was more than a friend to St. Mary's. His smiling face and ready wit lightened the way for many a despondent boy or girl. Although he is sincerely missed, his place has been amply filled by Rev. Francis J. Foley. Rev. Foley has continued the policy of his predecessor and from his first day in Upton, he has shown an active interest in the boys and girls of his Parish and in St. Mary's School.

We added a new name to our friendship list this school year in the person of Father Dunn, curate for Father Timothy Gleason of Medway. This zealous curate, working with his Pastor's co-operation, sent three girls from his Parish. It is worthy of note that these students are the most remote from St. Mary's and have had to endure really difficult transportation problems in order to get a Catholic education. Father Dunn's transfer to Medford Hillside interrupted his work for St. Mary's, but Father Gleason's interest and support still continues.

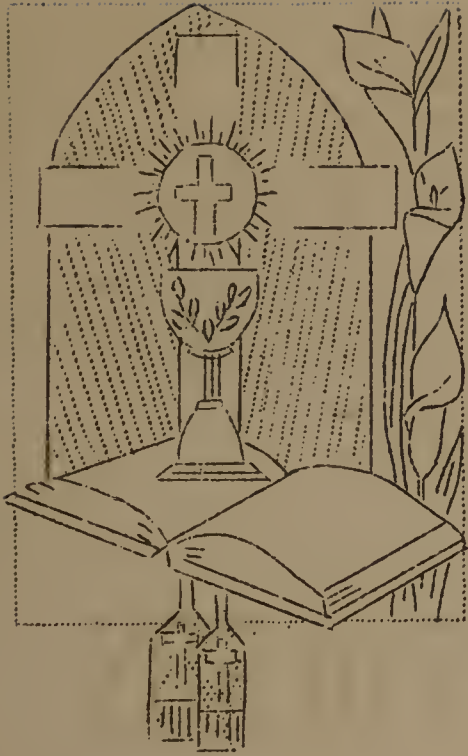

Rev. John J. Foran, St. Patrick's Parish, Whitinsville, is the counterpart in education and piety of our own dear Pastor, for he is his nephew. He is a diligent worker in furthering the cause of Catholic education, and because of his influence, many more Whitinsville boys and girls have been added to our list of pupils in the past few years.

Good Shepherd Parish, Linwood, holds another Champion for Christ. He is Rev. Alvin N. Gagnon, a pious and conscientious Priest of God, who, in his short time as Pastor of the Good Shepherd Parish, has sent some excellent and diligent pupils to the School, among them, Claire Dion, our illustrious Salutatorian.

Father Mulry, of St. Thomas Parish, Millis, was one of the first of the Priests of the surrounding Parishes to rally to the cause of Catholic education and to interest the boys and girls of his Parish in going to St. Mary's. His efforts met with great success, and while, at present, we have only a very few of the children of his Parish attending St. Mary's, Father Mulry still shows himself willing to aid in any way that he can in any project undertaken at St. Mary's.

Other Priests outstanding in the cause of Catholic education are Rev. Frederick J. Deasy, St. John's Parish, Hopkington, Rev. Daniel O'Keefe, St. Mary's Parish, Holliston, Rev. Francis Shea, Medfield. To these pious and conscientious Servants of Christ we offer our sincere gratitude for any help they may have given to St. Mary's in the way of new pupils or in aid or participation in any project which we have undertaken. Again, the Class of 1944 offers you our warmest thanks.

PAGES FROM THE PAST

In St. Mary's High School Library we have a Bible which belonged to the Rev. Patrick Cuddihy, the fourth pastor of St. Mary's Parish. On one of the record pages of the book there is penned in Father Cuddihy's own handwriting a brief summary of his life and labors which we reprint here to perpetuate his memory and to remind us of the great work he did in building St. Mary's Church, and laying the foundation for one of the greatest parishes in the Springfield diocese.

"I, Patrick Cuddihy wish to leave this record after me. I was born on St. Patrick's Day, 1809, of James Cuddihy and Mary Mulcahy both from near Clonmel Tipperary, county."

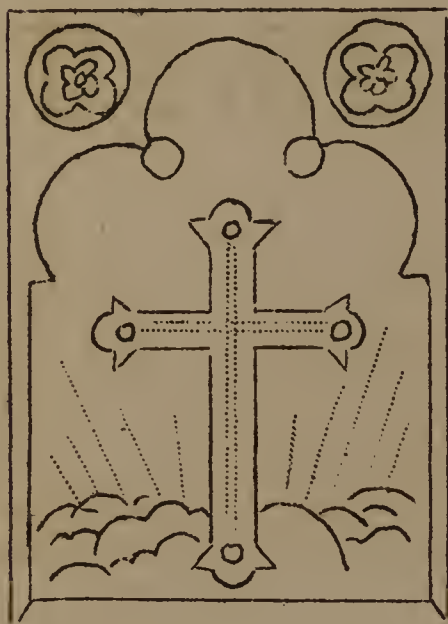

I went to Rome in 1827 to study for the Church; was professed in the Order of St. Francis on Oct. 8, 1828 - was ordained at Mass 1831. Lived in Clonmel ten years - and in Waterford ten years more - was secularized in 1852 by the Delegate Apostolic Most Rev. Paul Cullen then a bishop of Armagh. Came to America in October 1852. I was immediately after appointed pastor of Pittsfield where I lived till 1857. Built a Church at Lee, another at Great Barrington another at Adams, enlarged the one at Pittsfield, and laid out the finest Catholic cemetery of these days. I then came to Milford in Sept. 1857, where I have been till now this 12th day of Sept. 1886-98. I built the Church here laying the cornerstone May 1866. Furnished with organ, bells- the best in the country around. In 1890 built the tower. In 1896 built the Irish Round Tower in the cemetery and peers - and laid out and donated the cemetery.

In 1897 built the school house and bestowed it and the Convent to the Bishop for the Catholics of Milford. In 1882 introduced the Sisters who have been teaching since.

In Futinam Deo Memoriam, St. Patrick's Day 1894.

This day Deo gratias - I have celebrated my eighty- eighth birthday - sang Mass with Father Canavan deacon and Fr. Griffin, sub-deacon - being in perfect health - preached the panegyrick of St. Patrick last Sunday - and had the happiness to entertain my former curates and friends on Thursday 18th at dinner.

Laus Deo Semper

ST. MARY'S ANTHEM

Hail O St. Mary's Hail! Hail to thee--
Our loyal hearts will faithful and true e'er be.
Our love for you will remain all life thru,
Hail, dear St. Mary's, Hail, Hail to you.
With deep affection and fond recollection
Now our hearts we pledge thee
And with our praise a sweet song do we raise
Hail dear St. Mary's! Hail to you!

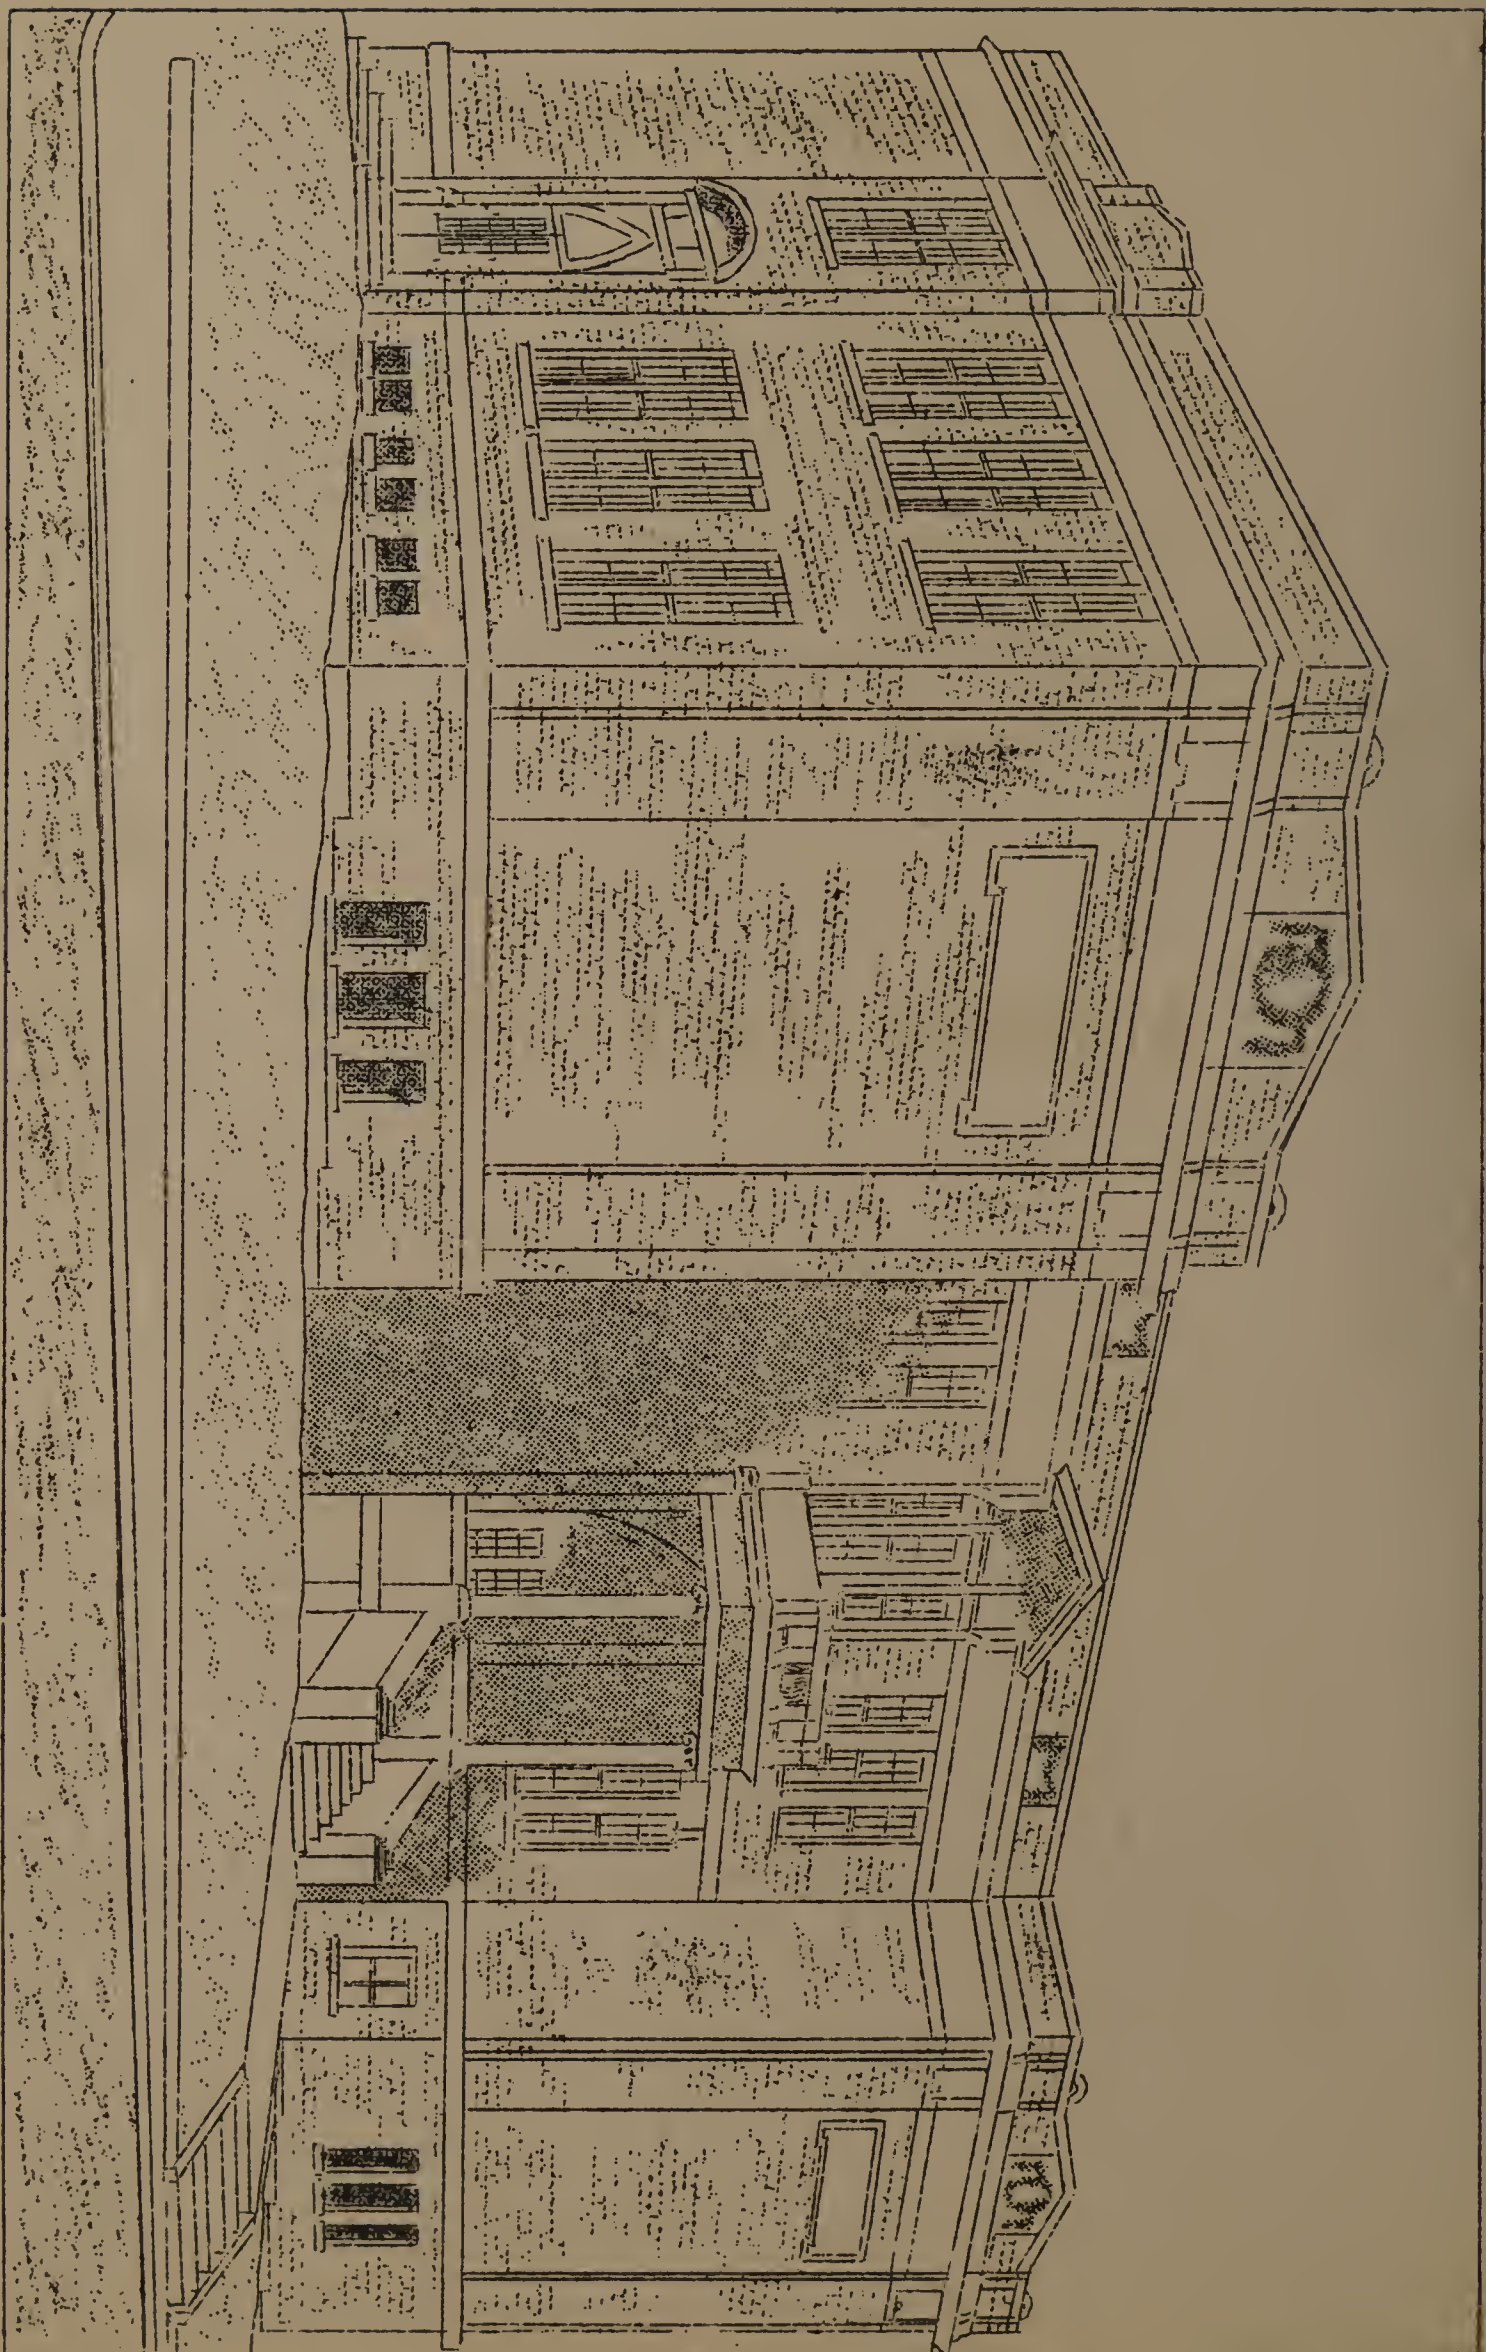

ST. MARY'S SCHOOL SONG

Now our pennant waving here, we nobly stand
Dear St. Mary's, we your true and valiant band
To thy standard we will cling
Pride and glory to thee bring
Alma Mater dear to thee
Let us forever be -
To thy standard we will cling
Pride and glory to thee bring
Alma Mater dear to thee
Let us forever be -
Sing out the cheer, loud and clear
Rah! Rah! Rah! Rah! Rah!
St. Mary's, St. Mary's - Rah! Rah! Rah! Rah! Rah!
Alma Mater, praise to thee
May our prayer forever be
From hearts true and filled with love
Look on her, O God above!

William Bernard Albin
 Course - Classical
 Activities - Glee Club 3-4, Orchestra 1-2, Dramatics 4.
 Jovial, good-natured, always ready for a bit of mischief. The preceding is a true picture of "Billy". We can't imagine going through one school day without a hearty laugh caused by a quip from him. Though willing to be serious when the occasion demands, he is always able to find the sunny side of all situations.

Louise Anne Arsenault
 Course - Classical
 Activities - Minstrel Show 1-2-3-4
 Radio Club 3, Oratorical Finalist 2, Glee Club 3-4, Year Book Staff 4, Cheerleader 4, St. Thomas Aquinas Circle 1-2 3-4.
 Let us introduce our Louise, with the blue eyes and blond hair. Her wit and humor stole their way and carved into our hearts a perpetual loving niche. Lou's willingness to cooperate and to help us out in any way possible has been brought to view time and time again. We feel assured that whatever her ambition may be, she will reach her goal in a short time.

Leo Edmund Benoit
 Course - Classical
 Activities - Glee Club 3-4.
 In his quiet, unassuming way, Leo has gained the friendship and respect of all his classmates. His presence with us has been greatly valued by all. He has left us now to join Uncle Sam's boys in blue and we know that he will meet each obstacle with his customary smile. The prayers and good wishes of all your classmates go with you, Leo, wherever you may go.

Pauline Loretta Blanchard
 Course - Commercial
 Activities - Glee Club 3-4, Candy Sale 4, Year Book Staff 4, St. Thomas Aquinas Circle 2-3-4, Dance Committee 4, Dramatics Library Club 3-4.
 Pauline is pleasant and efficient. She is a dependable girl and has the knack of doing things well and promptly. She is always willing to lend a helping hand as has been proven by her capable work on the Blue Mantle. Don't let her red hair fool you for she is really jolly and naive.

Catherine Mary Bliss
 Course - Classical
 Activities - Glee Club 3-4, Radio Club 3.
 Quiet and reserved are two adjectives that help describe Catherine. Although little is known about her we feel that her heart is as large as she is tall. It could always be said that Katy had a good word for everybody and this is an asset deserving of much praise. Lots of luck, Catherine! The best wishes of your classmates go with you into the future.

Margaret Mary Bowen
 Course - Classical
 Activities - Glee Club 3-4, Minstrel Show 3, St. Thomas Aquinas Circle 1-2.
 "A friend in need is a friend indeed." Whoever said this, surely must have known "Maggie". A good sport, full of fun and pep, what more could one ask for? Her loyalty and personality have made her one of the most popular members of our class. By looking at her one would believe her quite reserved but little do they know of what is deep down inside of this bubbling miss. God bless you!

Frances Ellen Bruce
 Course - Commercial
 Activities - Glee Club 3-4, Dance Committee 3-4, Dramatics 3-4, Candy Sale 4, Year Book Staff 4.
 Tall, dark and attractive, her name suggests a Scottish ancestry but those smiling blue eyes must have been imported from Ireland. She has smiled her way through each of our four years of High. Franny is ever ready to do a good deed. She has been a good student and friend to all. May she go through life scattering sunshine is our parting wish. Our best wishes go with you Franny.

Theresa Anne Carey
 Course - Classical
 Activities - Minstrel Show 1-2-3-4
 Glee Club 3-4.
 Theresa is Medway's gift to Saint Mary's. Her sweet voice has given the class of '44 a great pride in her as she sang in our minstrel shows. Always ready to pitch in and help in our activities, her loyalty to St. Mary's is unquestionable. May you find success in future years!

Helen Frances Charge
Course - Classical
Activities - St. Thomas Aquinas Circle 1-2-3-4, Class Secretary 3-4, Glee Club 3-4, Oratorical Finalist 1-2-3-4, Minstrel Show 3-4.

Possessed of a sweet and charming personality, Helen has a special place in all our hearts. Sparkling brown eyes, a wide smile and ready wit show us the true Helen. Her oratorical ability is the envy of all her classmates. Secretary of our class and faithful rooter at all our basketball games make her life a very busy one. Best of luck from the class of '44!

Catherine Theresa Clement
Course - Classical
Activities - Minstrel Show 1-2-3-4, Debates 3-4, Glee Club 3-4, Library Club 1, Oratorical Finalist 1-2-3-4, St. Thomas Aquinas Circle 1-2-3-4. Effervescent is the one word describing Katy. Her big brown dancing eyes, along with her untiring pep have always made us enviable. This little "bantam" of debaters contributed much in upholding the tradition of St. Mary's. Catherine always took the lead when it was necessary to cheer the basketball team on to victory and we now all take time out to cheer for her success in the nursing profession.

Mary Elizabeth Connors
Course - Classical
Activities - Minstrel Show 3, Glee Club 3-4.

Betty hails from Uxbridge and we think she is tops. Her cool and collected manner, her good sense and striking personality have put Betty deep in the hearts of her classmates. We feel sure, Betty, that you will tackle and accomplish the task which life will set before you. So, best of luck and happiness to you always!

Carmella Louise Dalio
Course - Commercial
Activities - Glee Club 3-4, Candy Sale 4, Dance Committee 3-4, Dramatics 4, Minstrel Show 3, Year Book Staff 4, Library Club 4. Although "Camie" has been with us for only three years, she has won a permanent place in the affection of her classmates. Her friendly manner has made her a favorite to all. She is an enthusiast for all school activities and always does her bit to keep S. M. A. on top.

Frances Elizabeth Dapkiewicz

Activities - Glee Club 3-4, Candy Sale 4, Dramatics 3, Library Club 3-4, St. Thomas Aquinas Circle 1-2-3-4, Dance Committee 4, Year Book Staff 4.

Frances, shy and retiring, hails from Hopedale. She is a generous friend and an outstanding student. Frances has the requisites of a business woman and if industry and perseverance mean anything in the attainment, she will most certainly succeed.

Jean Margaret DesBarres
Course - Classical
Activities - Minstrel Show 3, Glee Club 3-4, Radio 3. Out of the vale in the woods Jean came to us. Upton's loss was our gain, a little girl with a large voice. We feel certain that her favorite song is, "The Bells Are Ringing For Me And My Al!!!! Are we right, Jean? One wonders how so much chatter could be stored up in this tiny parcel for she keeps her corner alive all of the time. Your loyalty to St. Mary's has been your shining light, keep it up in years to come, Jean!

Activities - Glee Club 3-4, Candy Sale 4, Class Debates 1, St. Thomas Aquinas Circle 1-2-3-4, Dramatics 3, Dance Committee 4, Year Book Staff 4. Linwood's contribution to the Senior class is this quiet, courteous little French miss. Claire is efficient to her finger tips but not a bit officious. She has always managed to be a worthwhile friend to her classmates and a joy to her teachers. She has already set her foot upon the path of success.

Best of luck
Jicca

Activities - Glee Club 3-4, Football 4, Oratorical Finalist 3, Minstrel Show 3-4, Class Debates 4, St. Thomas Aquinas Circle 1-2-3-4.

Who in our class didn't know and like "Bob"? We have never seen him when grouchy or ever found him wanting where the welfare of his classmates was concerned. His nice friendly attitude and sense of humor have gained him innumerable friends. It's been swell knowing you, "Bob". May fortune be kind to you!

Rosarie Ann Edwards
Course - Nurse's Prep.

Activities - St. Thomas Aquinas Circle 1-2-3-4, Glee Club 3-4, Minstrel Show 2-3-4, Library Club 1, Radio 3.

A sweet smile and a voice ever soft and gentle are only two of the many qualities which endear Rosarie to everyone with whom she comes in contact. Her animation and enthusiasm for sports and social activities are the key to her overwhelming popularity. All her classmates echo a fond farewell and a sincere wish for her happiness and success in the future.

Arlene Dorothy Fenner
Course - Commercial

Activities - Glee Club 3-4, Candy Sale 4, St. Thomas Aquinas Circle 1-3-4, Year Book Staff 4, Minstrel Show 4, Dramatics 3-4, Dance Committee 3-4.

A very whirlwind of youthful animation is this Upton lassy. When ever Arlene appears upon the scene there is sure to be something doing. She is a leader and capable of carrying through her ideas to a successful culmination. Moreover, Arlene swings seven subjects and even with this heavy schedule, she manages to keep on the St. Thomas Aquinas Circle.

Frances Evelyn Flaherty
Course - Commercial

Activities - Glee Club 3-4, Candy Sale 4, St. Thomas Aquinas Circle 2-3-4, Dance Committee 3-4, Year Book Staff 4, Radio Club 3, Class Debates 1, Minstrel Show 1-3.

We have heard that the qualities of brains and beauty seldom dwell in the same individual but Frances proves the exception to this rule for God has bestowed upon her both these attributes. Her smile is irresistible and invites new friends while holding the old ones. She ranks high in her class and in the hearts of her classmates.

Cora Louise Gaffney
Course - Classical

Activities - Glee Club 3-4, Minstrel Show 1-2-4

Louise, although one of the petite and quieter members of our group, was always ready to cast her lot with our dear Alma Mater. She was a willing worker when called upon for extra-curricular activities, no matter when. Remember the blisters from raking the yard? The inner circle will never forget those autumn days. Good luck, Louise, we know you will be a charming little nun!

Good looking? Yes. Smart dresser? Yes. Good dancer? Yes. Popular? Yes. Good friend? None better. Dick was always ready to help us lessen the cares of the day and to make our high school days seem far brighter. His winning personality and natural wit have stamped themselves indelibly on our memory. Good luck, Dick, we'll always be rooting for you.

Whoever has come in contact with "Bob" can readily understand the position he holds with his fellow students. We could fill page after page with his accomplishments and still remain far from our objective. He was our shining example of a real student, a gentleman and a friend. In years to come, we shall feel a thrill of joy to have known him.

We made a wise selection in choosing Hubert as leader of our class. But Uncle Sam stepped in to claim him, thereby curtailing his school activities. Now he is giving his best efforts to the Navy where his leadership will ever hold up the tradition of the Navy blue and we feel sure he will prove himself a true and loyal son of our country. Ship ahoy, sailor! our prayers and good wishes will be with you always.

"Good things come in small packages". Our small package is that friendly, fun-loving Irish miss from Uxbridge. Her cheery smile and carefree manner are truly her endearing charms. These charms have brightened our school days and chased away many dull moments in the classroom. To you, Doris, we wish the best of luck and may your path through life always be bright with the light of your sunny nature.

Leona knows all the answers and it is no great marvel for she rivals any prosecuting attorney when it comes to asking questions. There is no need to say that she is a clever student for her record in the St. Thomas Aquinas Circle relates this story. Study has not made her somber, however, for she simply radiates happiness and good cheer.

All the Colleens do not come from Ireland for our "Bub" only sailed from Upton. She's right at home on the dance floor and knows the latest steps but that does not say that her brains are in her toes as her lessons are always ready. Besides these lighter responsibilities, she might be called her Dad's partner for she helps him to manage the best grocery store in the metropolis of Upton.

Never have we had the pleasure of knowing anyone more capable than
"Joe". His innate ability to keep a cool head during the most trying situations has long been a marvel
to all of us. We dare say, too, that there have been few of us who have not at one time or another
been the victim of one of his many happy future.

We can say no better word for Ux-her representative. His dynamic personality, his keen sense of hu-

a friend. He was at home on the

The Class of '44, known far and wide because of their great accomplishments, needs no introduction. Their brilliant scholastic records, fruitful debating material, dazzling social functions, and their history-making sport news have made them the cynosure and envy of S. M. H. And so, without further adieu let us proceed to draw back the curtain of time and follow this happy class in their successful journey through high school.

On a bright and warm September day, in the year 1940, a group of bright-eyed, merry youngsters entered the portals of St. Mary's High School. This day will linger long in the memory of all for it marked the beginning of a trail of glory, blazed by the Class of '44.

The Freshman Oratoricals served as a source of surprise and pleasure, as much talent was revealed during the first speaking contest. Winners of the contest were chosen as follows:

FIRST PRIZE.....	Miss Helen Charge
	Francis McNamara
SECOND PRIZE.....	Miss Catherine Clement
	Richard Gallagher

Even as lowly Freshmen, the Class of '44 demonstrated their success in social life when they conducted the Rainbow Dance, in the school auditorium. It was a gala social affair, largely attended, and enjoyed by all.

The second year rolled around and with it came additional glory for the new Sophomores. They were admirably represented in the Athletic Field by such sportsmen as "Chic" Sayles and Francis McNamara.

The dance of the year was the Columbus Day Dance, conducted by the eager Sophomores. Hubert Keane and Miss Mary Kennedy served as co-chairmen of the dance committee.

The Oratorical ability of the Class of '44 was further proven in the Sophomore Oratorical Contest, which was open to the public and attended by many of the townspeople. Miss Helen Charge and Francis McNamara were adjudged winners of the final contest, with Miss Catherine Clement and Gerald McKernan being awarded second honors.

Leaving behind them two successful years, the Class of '44, entered their Junior year. The election of class officers was immediately undertaken and the following officers were elected:

PRES.....Francis McNamara
VICE PRES.....Robert Howland
SECT.....Miss Helen Charge
TRES.....Miss Margaret Rossetti

In the Diocesan Debating Club, the Class of '44 was prominent. They were represented by such talented speakers as Miss Catherine Clement, Richard Gallagher, and Francis McNamara. And they were justly proud when the St. Mary's Debaters won the championship of the Springfield diocese and secured permanent possession of the Bishop O'Leary cup.

A choral speaking selection was rendered by the pupils of St. Mary's, on the Life Radio Club broadcast at Worcester. The witch scene from Macbeth by Shakespeare was offered, and in contrast a nursery rhyme was rendered by the speakers. Those representing the Junior Class were, namely: Marie Kilburn, Jeanne Madden, Rosarie Edwards, Helen Kittredge, Catherine Clement, Mary Kennedy, Jean McCormack, Florence Mahoney, and Louise Arsenault.

The leading social function of the year was the Junior Prom, with Robert Donovan as chairman. The hall was elaborately decorated and a large crowd enjoyed the gala affair.

With these accomplishments, the Junior Year of the Class of '44 drew to a close and they entered the honored place reserved for proud seniors. This year proved especially fruitful, for now they were both older and wiser than they had been when they entered as lowly Freshman.

The Senior Class Officers were elected as follows:

PRES.....Hubert Keane
VICE PRES.....Robert Sullivan
SECT.....Miss Helen Charge
TRES.....Miss Marguerite Miller

In the Athletic Field we were duly represented. Intramural football introduced such players as Bill Kirley, Bob Donovan, Hubert Keane, "Chic" Sayles, Joe McKiernan, and Francis McNamara. On the basketball court, one of the outstanding players was "Chic" Sayles. In baseball, also, we were represented by "Chic" Sayles and Francis McNamara.

A Halloween Dance was sponsored by the Class of '44, in the line of which nothing was left undone to insure a good time for all. The co-chairmen of this dance were Miss Rosarie Edwards and William Kirley.

Later in the year another successful dance was conducted in the school auditorium, known as the Valentine Dance. The hall was appropriately decorated for the occasion, with Miss Helen Charge and Albert Sayles as co-chairmen.

Debating played a prominent role during this year also. The Class of '44 was again represented by such able orators as - Miss Catherine Clement, Miss Jeannette Smith, Richard Gallagher and Joseph McKiernan. These debaters have made an enviable record, which will long be admired by those who witnessed their performance.

Another of the leading events of the year was the demonstration of speaking ability in the Senior Oratorical Contest. This event was open to the public and proved to be an entertaining event. Those participating in the finals were: Misses Helen Charge, Catherine Clement, Claire Dion, Mary Kennedy, Helen Kittredge, Marguerite Miller, Margaret Rossetti, and Jeannette Smith, Mary Sullivan, also, Richard Gallagher, Francis McNamara, and Francis Nugent.

The St. Mary's Merry Minstrels sponsored a very enjoyable show, the chorus of which was well supported by the Class of '44. Those who contributed specialties were Francis McNamara, Robert Donovan, and Richard Gallagher.

One of the most successful candy sales ever held in the school was sponsored by the Commercial division of the Class of '44. The Senior girls were bedecked in gay little aprons and hats for the occasion, and the proceeds from the sale proved them to be expert saleswomen.

The Commercial division also deserves endless credit for their untiring work in issuing the Servicemen's Bulletin. Letters from servicemen, in every corner of the world have poured in expressing the deep and sincere appreciation of their efforts.

Since that memorable day in September 1940, when the Class of '44 passed through the portals of St. Mary's, joy and happiness have been theirs. For that joy and happiness, they are grateful. Only one shadow has dimmed their happiness. That shadow was war. Many of their dear friends were taken from their midst and cast into a great and terrifying conflict. But though their classmates, scattered throughout the world, cannot be here today with them, their memory lingers on and the prayer of the Class of '44 will be that God may protect them always, and if it be His Holy Will send them safely home once again to their loved ones.

So this is our history.....the history of an illustrious class, whose heart will ever throb in close harmony with that of their dear Alma Mater.

Class Prophecy

I'm sure all of you are "in the know" when it comes to fantastic and new modern inventions. For example: take the lie detector, that machine which can record the fact that you're telling a lie by way of scientific waves. It can detect even a white lie, so you see it's not color-blind either. Then there's that newly-invented helicopter. You know, that thing that looks like a distorted washing machine and is as ready to take off as some of those screwy hair-dos one sees nowadays. Well, if you think you've seen anything, just listen as I tell you of my hair raising trip by a new fandangled invention, the time machine, which is most certainly contrary to that old proverb, "Time waits for no man."

It seems that a scientific friend of mine, namely one Doctor Bronson has recently produced a new invention, the time machine. This amazing machine is capable of carrying a person to or from any time or age by scientific mechanism. All one has to do is to press a tiny button and presto! there you are at the desired place, at the desired time. Why! It may even take you back to the time of the early Egyptians or the Middle Ages or take you to an age in the far, far future. Dr. Bronson was trying to find someone to act as the guinea pig for his first experiment, when I dropped into the picture. At first sight the invention looked to me like a large broken down picture frame with wires going here, there and everywhere. Investigating further, I found that there were several little dials with dates by which to regulate it. One of the dates which immediately caught my eye was the remote date, 1960.

"Gosh", thought I, "wouldn't it be fun to know way ahead of time what my classmates will be doing at that late date." After this musing, it didn't take Dr. Bronson long to persuade me much further. However, before finally giving in to him, I will say this much. I paid all my insurance payments up to date and made my will, just in case, you know.

"But just think" Doctor Bronson encouraged me, "if this invention works, you will go down in history, as a great heroine for your contribution to science!"

"Oh, I'm not worrying about that," I assured him. I was only worrying about the possibility, if it doesn't work. I'd certainly rather be a live heroine than a dead one anyday. But finally after his constant persuasion, I consented. ~~Mustering~~ up whatever courage was in me (which wasn't much, I assure you all) I forced myself in the frame-like machine. Then it happened! With a violent buzzing in my ears, worse than any bee-hive and with every possible and thinkable sound effect closing in on me, I was on my way, and not to the "March of Time" mind you.

Opening one eye and then the other, I saw where I was. In the midst of a thriving metropolis!

"Metropolis" I said aloud. "It looks more like something just out of Zaneytown." Wierd modernistic buildings, and styles so changed that I felt like something out of the old family album; helicopters whizzing over my head so fast that I had to hold on to whatever hat I had left. "Heaven help the toupee wearers", I mused. "So this is 1960! Times have certainly changed." But what was I standing there for when I should be using every available minute looking for news about my classmates. My intuition took me to a nearby newstand. "Well, at least they still have newspapers," I muttered to myself. There ought to be something about someone of my classmates. Well, what do you know! "Robert Howland elected Mayor of New York." Oh, but then I knew he would be successful. H'm here's something else. "Captain Robert Donavon was honored at a large dinner as record-breaker of Trans-Atlantic flight". And here 's a photo. Gosh, but it looks familiar. Of course, why there's Richard Gallagher, doctor, mind you and Joan McCormick, Louise Arsenault, Jeanne DesBarres, Helen Kittredge, and Mary Connors, all nurses. I knew I was never one to forget faces.

Failing to find anything else about my other classmates I put down my newspaper. Giving in to the call of hunger, I entered the first restaurant I came upon and finding a secluded table I sat down hastily, aware of people staring at me, as if I were one of a vegetarian descent. I ordered the traditional and old reliable corned-beef and cabbage dinner. Yes, I am Irish, as you may have guessed. Hungry as I was, you can imagine my surprise, when a little plate no larger than a saucer was placed before me, with two little pills on it; one representing the corned beef which was a reddish color; the other, a bright green, for the cabbage.

"Another new scientific discovery, no less," thought I. No wonder I marvelled at the quick service. Still trying to make out how two tiny pills could satisfy my hunger pangs, I overheard two familiar voices coming from the next booth. "Oh, it couldn't be possible" I said aloud, "but yet"- Again my curiosity got the best of me. I know it was rude but I peeked over the top of the booth and guess what! There in the booth were Catherine Bliss and Louise Gaffney, old classmates of mine. After an unusual reunion, and some intricate explaining on my part, for my sudden appearance, I learned that they were the owners of the very restaurant we were in. Soon after I showered them with a rush of questions about my classmates.

"Do you remember Doris Malley, Theresa Carey and Dora Porzio?" Catherine asked.

"Of course" I answered.

"Well they're successful dieticians in our restaurant now" she continued.

"Really"? I asked, marvelling at their success.

"Yes, and good ones, too."

"Have you had time to take in a show, yet?" Louise chimed in.

"No" I answered, "but I want to before the day is out."

"Well" she went on, "you should see 'The Road to Milford' based on Francis Nugent's new novel. It's a super duper. Guess who stars in it. Helen Charge and William Kirley. Don't laugh, but he's called 'The Cinderella Boy of the Year'."

"I'm not surprised to hear about Helen, but William Kirley" I marvelled.

"That's not all", Catherine put in, "there are quite a few who have made good in Hollywood. William Albin is now a successful director and Margaret Bowen has just been voted the year's best comedienne."

"And don't forget Florence Mahoney", Louise chimed in, "she has just been given the title of Giggles Girl, you know."

"They've certainly hit high time" I commented.

As all good times must come to an end, I had to leave them reluctantly, in order to accomplish what I had set out to do.

Continuing my sight seeing trip, I took refuge in a radio shop, yes, another of those fandangled new ideas, that is, a sort of public radio. The first thing I noticed, upon entering, was a now-common television set. This radio shop resembled a movie theater complete with screen and all. An usher by my side promptly led me to a seat. Looking more closely at him I was surprised to recognize my old schoolmate Francis DiAntonio, who was, by the way chosen as the most handsome, the most outstanding and for the physical record, the tallest boy in the Senior Commercial Class of '44.

Seating myself comfortably, I listened attentively to the announcer. Then, glancing at the television screen, I saw that the announcer was none other than Joseph McKiernan. In order to have something for the record, as evidence of my astounding trip, I secured a transcription of the program. Wait until I put it on the phonograph. Ah, here it is. Listen-----

"Hello Ladies and Gentlemen: This is your faithful columnist Joe McKiernan bringing you the latest dirt from your backyard and mine. This program is sponsored by Goody-Goody soap the soap that is guaranteed to make your face so clean that you yourself won't recognize it. (It can also be used as a flea soap for animals)

And now for the latest dirt:

WASHINGTON: Catherine Clement, prominent Congress-woman, today introduced a new tax bill. This bill, however, is receiving stubborn opposition from another Congress-woman Leona Mann.

AGAIN WASHINGTON: Several important promotions have just been made here in Washington today, among which are: Claire Dion promoted to the Junior Executive position of the department of Civil Service. Frances Flaherty to the position of Vice-President of the South American Relations Board and Arlene Fenner to the position of Acting Manager of Washington Advertising Board.

NEW YORK: Frankie (Sinatra) McNamara, that swooner-crooner is now swooning the goons this week at the Palladium. Frankie is now upheld by the bobby-socks brigade as the sensation of the nation.

"Oh, Frankie-----!!

AGAIN NEW YORK: Chick Sayles, newly appointed manager of the Boston Red Sox is well assured of a better than ever baseball squad this year. Let's wish him success in his new undertaking. And now for something for the file in the world of style! The nationwide poll of Covergirls has just proclaimed the winners. First place:

Margaret Rossetti, well known Covergirl of Ladies' Home Journal. Runnerup: Marguerite Miller, popular Covergirl of Cosmopolitan. Another winner which the woman's world has been anxiously waiting is the title of best-dressed woman of the year, attributed to none other than Assumpta Norcia. Marie Kilburn, Jeannette Smith, Rosarie Edwards and Carmella Dalio, are now receiving universal renown as Madden Models, supervised by Jeanne Madden. The one partly responsible for their success is Barbara Summers, outstanding dress-designer, who designed their extensive wardrobes. Another hair-do has just hit high-time namely the "Whirlaway" introduced by hairdresser Pauline Blanchard. Her models by the way for this hair-do were Frances Bruce and Frances Dapkiewicz.

DETROIT: According to manufacturer of helicopters, David Moroney and the proprietor of a helicopter repair garage Barbara Moroney, the helicopter is definitely the big thing in transportation and has replaced the automobile, by far.

And now a word from our sponsors: 'Is your face rough and ready? Rough and tough as only rough can be and ready to scream, at its reflection in the mirror? Yes? Well, use Goody-Goody soap and see what it can do for you. That well-known skin specialist, Mary Kennedy says, I quote: 'I use Goody-Goody soap everyday.' My advice to you who want a smoother than smooth complexion is: 'Use Goody-Goody soap.....dope!'

That's all for now folks. Until tomorrow I remain your faithful gossip Joe(in the know) McKiernan. Until then don't forget to use Goody-Goody soap. Just look into your television set and see how smooth my face is! I use Goody-Goody soap; why don't you?'

Pushing my way through the crowd I finally (at the end of ten minutes) made my way to the street, once more. Looking at my watch I saw that it was nearing the time Dr. Bronson had informed me to return. I grasped the time-machine transmitter in my hand and made my way regretfully to the place where I had made my (anything but illustrious entrance into this strange new age). With one backward glance I pressed the button on the little transmitter, and closed my eyes. This time when I opened my eyes I was no longer mystified for there I was in Dr. Bronson's laboratory once again.

Although I was more than glad to return to this year 1944, I most certainly look forward to the next opportunity which may come my way, when I may again be able to visit my classmates under such unusual and exciting circumstances.

Mary Sullivan '44'

When the Class of "44" was told that it was to sponsor the first Senior Hop at Saint Mary's, the entire class immediately became enthusiastic about the gala affair, promised to work for its success to the best of their ability, and before classes were dismissed the entire school knew about it.

The first essential was the election of the chairman and the various committees, Francis Mc Namara was chosen general chairman assisted by Arlene Fenner. The entire Senior Class helped out on all the committees.

The night of the great event, the twenty-sixth of May, was impatiently awaited by more than fifty couples, but eventually it rolled around.

The hall was beautifully decorated in the appropriate colors of the school -- blue and white. The centerpiece consisted of a mirror carefully set in blue cardboard inscribed with "Class of "44" was an elaborate idea of Barbara Summers, chairman of the Decorating Committee, and it caught many an eye and many a reflection. The stage was bedecked with a statue of the Virgin Mary with elaborate colors of silver and blue offsetting it. These decorations intermingled with beautiful gowns and many colored reflecting lights was really a sight that will linger long in our memories.

We were privileged to have Bill Albin's orchestra, the father of one of our classmates furnish the music which everyone undoubtedly enjoyed.

We were also privileged to have Father Carberry's never failing help and generosity. He was a great boom in making our Hop a real success and the Class of "44" will certainly hold Father Carberry deep in our memories and esteem him as one of our favorites.

Perhaps, at least for many of us, this will be our last school formal, but I'm sure it will be one of the many happy moments we have witnessed and unexpressively enjoyed at our Alma Mater -- Saint Mary's.

Beginning in April, students taking Shorthand and Typewriting were urged to take part in the various contests sponsored by "The Gregg Writer."

The Gregg Writer is a monthly publication devoted to the interests of Shorthand, Typewriting and other Commercial subjects. The articles in this magazine, which created the most interest among the Commercial students, are worthy of special mention. The first contains letters to be written in Shorthand for the purpose of writing correct outlines. Those who pass this test with a high rating are given membership in the Junior Order of Gregg Artists. The following received OGA certificates for perfect Shorthand outlines:

Margaret Rossetti	'44	Pearl Daigo	'46
Claire Dion	'44	John Murphy	'46
Joan McCarthy	'45	Elia Dell'Orco	'46
Mary Helen Nugent	'46	Rita Richards	'46

COMRADES LIVE AND DIE TOGETHER

Moroney

Summer in the South Pacific islands is really a hot season, so the boys of the 10th Division of the 569th Infantry agreed on a particularly sultry evening following an afternoon's preparation for a Jap attack. Every night for a week this small American held island had been subject to raids but as yet there were no serious results. The men were now climbing into the fox holes consoling themselves as best they could with thoughts of happier days and trying to snatch a few minutes rest before the activities of the night began.

Sergeant Don Houston, Top Sergeant of Company H, had just completed the task of getting his company stowed away and dropped lightly into a fox hole already occupied by Corporal Bob Henning and Private Dick Sullivan, his buddies.

"Hi, Don," he was greeted simultaneously by the two men.

"Hi, fellows," returned Sergeant Don and lapsed into a tense silence.

Dick and Bob felt that the Sarge had something weighty on his mind and for several minutes respected his evident preoccupation without comment. But these nights spent in fox holes had frayed their nerves and the silence became unbearable when Bob broke the spell.

"Do you think anything will happen tonight, Don?"

A sigh of relief escaped from the two buddies and they began a conversation in a low tone. The Sarge addressed the two boys.

"I've had a feeling all day that there will be big doings before dawn. In fact, I hope there will be something to break the monotony of the situation. If this continues much longer there will be terrifying results among the men."

Before the Sarge had finished speaking the weird whirr of the Air Raid Siren pierced the silent night air. The men of Company H manned their Anti-Air Craft Guns within a split second and waited. In five minutes twelve enemy planes appeared and for half an hour poured a stream of bombs on the island. Four Jap planes were left behind when the raid was over and two of these had been brought down by Dick.

When the "All-Clear" was sounded, Don began his hard check-up and found two first class privates wounded. The Medic was in attendance very promptly and Don returned to his buddies.

"How are conditions with the other companies, Bob?" he questioned.

"A few minor injuries, Sarge. How about us?" from the Corporal.

"Privates first-class Marsh and Matteo slightly wounded. Doc says they'll be as good as new in a few days. It'll take more than a bunch of dirty Japs to wipe out Company H or any other company of the 10th Division."

That was all. These men had learned to make the most of the meager recesses of peace between raids and were already sleeping. It was midnight, though it seemed only a minute to the weary buddies, when the siren again shrieked its warnings. Almost automatically the same preparations were made. There were only ten planes this time. The Anti-Air Craft were right on the job, but now a surprise was in store for them. Jap Parachutists, about two hundred in number, dropped from the planes and before the 10th Division had fully recovered the little yellow men were everywhere in full and fast action, along the shore, behind trees, rocks and the debris of their own ill-fated air-craft.

The encounter lasted for three hours. The Sarge was very busy keeping a check on his men, shouting orders and encouragement. He stopped for a brief second in a machine gun nest for a word with Dick and Bob and then he was gone.

For half an hour more the s-p-p-u-t of the machine gun talked back to the Japs. Daylight showed a gruesome landscape, dead and wounded, Japs and Americans, lying by the hundred along the line of battle.

The Sarge was just completing his check-up and was now heading for his two pals in the nest. He was glad they were safe and in his eagerness to bring the news of the highpriced victory, he called softly. Two heads appeared and disappeared instantly as a volley of shot poured into the nest. The Sarge dropped in and all was quiet. Bob had received a mortal wound in his chest and was already beyond human aid. Dick was wounded severely too, but raising with difficulty, he huskily inquired:

"Bob, is he-----is he all right?"

Don, bending over him to render first aid, replied in his steady voice:

"Bob's okay, kid, he's fighting harder than ever for us."

He checked the question which Dick was framing with the curt order to be quiet and then quickly and gently bandaged Dick's head, not forgetting to keep an eagle eye on the scene before him. The shooting had ceased. Dick was very quiet too. He had his rosary in his hand and the beads were slipping slowly through his fingers.

"Don, how's it going?" he asked with his old spirit.-

"They're all done, Buddy. How could we lose with such men as you and Corporal Bob!"

The Sarge saw the face of his pal that is what was visible under the blood-soaked bandage and he knew that it was all over with Dick, too. Strange how he had been in the presence of death all night and yet this----this death----so close and so certain was different.

Bob's beads were still in his hands but they were not moving now. There was no sign of struggle or suffering on the face of his friend. Unaccustomed tears filled the Sarge's eyes and bending over Dick he gently whispered:

"So long, Corporal, don't forget the 10th Division."

He wondered if Dick had received his last message as he brushed his sleeve over his eyes. The two gone----the best friends he had ever had. Dick moved slightly and opened his eyes. That he had a last message to give, Don knew by a sixth sense and he raised the dying man as gently as a mother would raise her child. Then, with a mighty effort Dick gave his last proof of friendship.

"Don?" he said weakly.

"Yes, Pal" the Sarge replied almost as weakly.

"Bob and I'll be looking for you"-----There was a long pause, "when these blasted shells start flying a man must be ready. You'll-----?"

The Corporal never finished the question but the Sarge knew what he meant and sought the Chaplain that very day. From a contrite and humble heart he made his peace with God.

The Senior Commercial Class is quite proud of its monthly publication, "The Servicemen's Bulletin" and well they may be. These sheets of cheer and encouragement have gone out every month for over two years to the boys and girls of St. Mary's in the armed services.

The idea was born in March 1942 when Lt. Arthur Nealon paid a visit to St. Mary's and gave the Class of '42 a little heart to heart talk about army life. There was one sentence above all the others that made an impression on his hearers probably because it held out the hope of helping and cheering the boys. LT. Nealon said that he always felt sorry for the boys who waited hopefully during the distribution of mail and got none. He said that you could almost see their spirits sink. Some of the pupils felt that it wasn't enough to feel sympathetic but that something should be done. The boys and girls all liked to hear the home town news so why not write a newsy letter to all! Margaret Cullinan of '42 was the first to send it out. It was just a letter telling the boys what the class proposed to do, and then all the school affairs in which they would be interested and last but not least the fact that though they were miles away the students were backing them with prayers and financially by buying bonds.

The mailing list for that first issue was very small as the work of listing the boys and girls in the service was rather difficult. An announcement in the high and grammar schools helped to build up a larger circulation and now the boys themselves, anxious not to miss an edition, sent in their addresses.

The expense and work are the contribution of the Senior Commercial Class and although this year the class was very small, they still felt that the burden was only too light in comparison with the little pleasure it gives the boys and girls of St. Mary's.

Each day's mail brings recompense. From all over the world messages of appreciation come. We quote a few:

"My address is changed, I wanted you to know as I don't want to miss a single issue of this swell paper."

"The Bulletin has chased me all around the world and I must say it is wonderful."

"There is no thrill like the thrill of getting mail and I hope that I shall never miss getting the Bulletin."

"It means a lot to know where so many of your former friends and classmates are. By reading an address in the Bulletin, I was able to locate a classmate of mine, and we had an evening together in Louisiana."

"Keep up the good work. The Bulletin is doing a lot for us."

The second year content was increased and then a funny sheet was added. Now we, the Class of '44, send out two long sheets of typing plus two long funnies.

We reluctantly pass this heritage down to the Juniors and hope that they will not only continue but improve the Bulletin and that they will consider it, as we have, a cherished privilege.

PRO DEO ET PRO PATRIA

This is a day of slogans. There is a clever catch phrase to fit every occasion and too many of them have proven to be so deceptive that now when a new one comes to town we label it "Propaganda" and junk it.

However, we cannot condemn every nice sounding alliteration and brand it as an evil omen for over the main entrance of our high school we find the harmonious inscription, Pro Deo et Pro Patria. These nice sounding words ring sweet and true and proclaim to the world the reason why there is a St. Mary's School. It unites these twin loves -- love of God and love of country -- in an inseparable union. Our training at St. Mary's has made us realize the meaning of this motto. Today boys and girls from St. Mary's High School are in the armed service of our country fighting in all parts of the world to protect our God - given rights and assure them to all other nations.

"For God and Country", sacred words to which we consecrate our lives a holy pledge that we shall die rather than betray our loves.

COLEENS FROM THE SENIOR CLASSICAL

JUNIOR PROM AUDITORIUM

CHEMISTRY LABORATRY

TYPEWRITING ROOM

The Senior Commercial Candy Sale has come to be an annual event in St. Mary's High School. A few years ago, some of the girls suggested a Candy Sale as a means of raising money for the school. Sister Superior accepted the idea rather doubtfully setting the goal for such an enterprise at $25. However, the first sale brought in over $80 and each succeeding year has seen the figure increase until the banner class of '44 netted the neat sum of $280.

And to think that we were almost tempted to give up the sale this year! Where were we going to get the candy? Where were we going to get the sugar to make candy? Where were we going to get the butter? Where were these three substantial items to come from? Then we got our heads together and began to think.

Miss Alice Fitzpatrick, our school nurse, and a graduate of St. Mary's gave us a valuable hint. She could not make candy, she said, but she would give us some sugar and cocoa. That was the beginning of our candy kitchen afternoon. We asked for sugar in any quantity from a spoonful to a pound or more, cocoa, vanilla, milk and that precious goldbrick-butter. Two days before the sale, we donned our work aprons and spent the afternoon making candy in the Alumni Room. We had a glorious time and turned out tons of delicious candy. We didn't spoil a single batch. When we saw the heaps of candy we felt that we would never be able to sell it all. Besides what we made, we received very generous donations from past graduates and 100 % co-operation from the grammar school and the high school.

The day of the sale, we had trays of candy everywhere and with a prayer for good sales we started our tour through the schools. We were back in very short order for more candy. We sold every piece and didn't have as much as a sample for ourselves. The next day John Carey of Millville brought in a marvelous box of homemade candy--all different kinds with a letter of apology from his mother for being late with the donation. So we had our own private candy sale the day after the big one and we fared better for waiting.

We really would feel a bit guilty if we did not mention here the wonderful support given us by the children in the grammar school. It was something beyond our wildest hopes to see the way they worked for the prizes which were donated by the merchants in Milford.

As a financial project the Candy Sale ranks first and in addition to that, we got the experience of sending out letters asking for candy and prizes, letters of thanks to those who responded and a lot of real pleasure.

The School Library

One of Father Donahue's last and most successful undertakings while he was Principal of St. Mary's High School, was the establishing of our School Library. Funds for this project were raised through the annual Candy Sale, Dances, Sports, and other social activities.

Our Library got off to a grand start with eighteen hundred books, some of which were donated by persons interested in the welfare of the School and the furtherance of the cause of Catholic education.

St. Mary's High School Library is operated on the same system as the Public Library. Each pupil has a card which, when not in use, is kept on file.

As reading is a pleasurable as well as an educational pastime, St. Mary's School Library has flourished rapidly ever since its beginning, and continues to grow more and more popular each day.

OUR SUNDAY VISITOR

This year as in many years passed, every week without fail, the Sunday Visitor was found on the desk of every pupil attending St. Mary's High School. The "Visitor" is an active little paper every inch of it packed with useful, instructive, and informative reading. To us who have had the good fortune to read it. these past few years, it has served as an indispensable source of knowledge and we can all vouch for the fact that it has also served for many sundry purposes.

One of the regular, weekly assignments for the entire school is the writing of an appreciation of an article in the "Visitor" in composition form. This weekly essay is highly educational though we, at times, fail to realize its many great advantages. The writing of the essay is imposed upon us, not as a penalty, but for the purpose of expanding our innate talents for expressing ourselves clearly on paper, coherently and logically.

There is nothing to my knowledge, more desirable than a varied and extensive vocabulary. The "Sunday Visitor" has helped, is helping and undoubtedly will continue to help educationally every class that passes through the portals of S.M.A.

THE GO-GETTERS - HERE THEY ARE!

Soliciting advertisers for The Blue Mantle gave each member of the Senior Class an opportunity to develop ability as salesmen. A systematic advertising campaign was carried out by mail and personal solicitation. While nearly every member of the class got some advertising, the following members are deserving of special mention as the real "Go-Getters" of the Class. The names below have been selected according to the results obtained and are worthy of special notice:

Richard Gallagher	$42	Marguerite Miller	$30
Arlene Fenner	33	Robert Donovan	27
Barbara Summers	33	Pauline Blanchard	24
Claire Dion	33	Barbara Moroney	24
Frances Bruce	33	Mary Kennedy	24
Frances Flaherty	30	Leona Mann	24
Margaret Rossetti	30	Frances Dapkiewicz	24
Mary Sullivan	30	Carmella Dalio	24
Assumpta Norcia		$24

What would St. Mary's do without a Glee Club? The Seniors can readily answer that! Those assembly days which commemorate our national heroes or some historical event would be colorless gatherings without a song or two. The Glee Club is always ready to lend its charm on all such occasions.

This extra curricular activity is open to Juniors and Seniors although this year a few exceptionally talented Sophomores have been admitted to the Club. Even gray days became gay days when the songsters gathered together, filling the Assembly Hall with sweet harmony.

The Seniors especially cherish happy memories of this music hour for it cheers their parting days and helps them to sing away their little troubles. We, the class of '44, only hope that the following Senior Class will appreciate as we have, the Glee Club and that it will always be given a place of honor in our school.

PASS

A bright football zoomed through the clear, crisp air in long arching spirals. Lined up on one end of the Alumni Field, were three or four boys, clad in blue and white jerseys, who were punting to a similar bunch forty yards away. A squad of eleven boys lined up in the T formation respecting the drill signals. This was the first practice session for Fordmill University football team. More than forty boys had answered the call for candidates. Each boy was eager to win a coveted place on the varsity, and therefore anxious to attract Coach Parker's watchful eye.

Jack Lowell was a huskily built boy; he felt an off stir of longing to be out there with the players. Slowly, he shook his head. No, football was not for him. He started away, halted and his glance shifted back to the field. Suddenly his eyes brightened. One of the players had gotten off a high spiraling punt. The ball, soaring high over the intended receiver's head, rooted straight toward Jack. He scooped up the pigskin and was looking it over when a voice called out.

"Say, how about throwing the ball back. here!" One of the players about twenty yards away asked.

"Sorry, guess I was dreaming," he murmured. Then he drew back his right arm and tossed the pigskin away from him. Instead of going to the player, it sailed over his head and bounced at the feet of a tall young man standing along the sidelines.

Jack turned and began to amble away from Alumni Field.

"Wait a minute, came a voice from behind him."

"What's the matter?" he demanded.

"Plenty, you just threw that ball?" the young man asked.

"Yes, why?"

"Well, that was some toss. Are you just reporting for the squad?"

"No, just watching."

"Just watching? Listen, I'm Larry Heron, backfield coach. What's your name?"

"Jack Lowell."

"Can you throw like that all the time?"

"Gosh, I don't know. Never really tried much."

"I wouldn't be surprised if you're the answer to Pop Parker's prayer. He's been looking for a new passer and hasn't seen the remotest sign of anyone. Come with me."

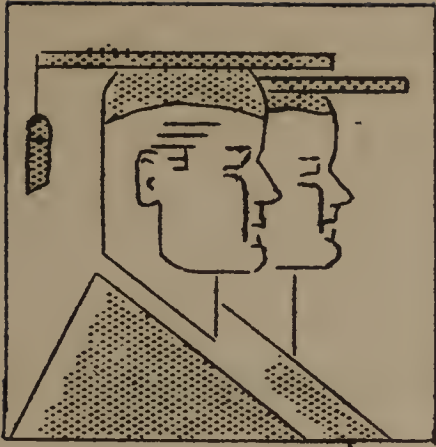

After much thought Jack joined the team, reported for practice sessions regularly and was chosen for a regular backfield position.

The Fordmill team went through a very successful season, towards the end of which they faced Grant Institute, for the championship.

Jack's first glimpse of the opposing players, showed him that they were a big rugged bunch and added all the more to his growing anxiety.

In rapid succession the Grant Ramblers unravelled one power play after another, never attempting a pass, the result of which brought them across the goal line. However, they failed in the extra point leaving the score Grant-six and Fordmill-nothing. As the game progressed both teams battled furiously. Up and down the field the ball went, but neither could make any headway. There was only time for two more plays. Clarksville, Fordmill's diminutive quarterback put the team into a six-man line, for over the left side-line. Tom Searles lay flat on his stomach. The ball snapped back to Jack. Skillfully he retreated, until Tom could get clear and with well marked precision, dropped the ball into his hands and crossed the goal line.

Calmly Jack stepped back, and kicked the extra point. With that the gun boomed and Fordmill had won the game and championship.

Debating Teams

STANDING: Janet Smith, Joseph McKiernan, Richard Gallagher, Robert Reardon, Raymond Morin, Catherine Clement.
SEATED: Avis Hubbard, Father Carberry, Rosemary Larkin.

Debates

The Debating Team of St. Mary's High School is feared by all adversaries throughout the entire diocese. For many years past, St. Mary's has maintained such a high ranking team that it has reached many final contests. This past debating season has proven that our feats of former years were due to, not luck or breaks, but to real ability.

The night of the preliminary debates found Richard Gallagher, Robert Reardon, Catherine Clement and Helen Charge at home representing the affirmative side of the question:

RESOLVED: That the Atlantic Charter should be made the basis of peace.

against the negative team representing St. Louis High of Webster.

On this same evening, our Negative Team composed of Raymond Morin, Janet Smith, Avis Hubbard and Joseph McKiernan traveled to Worcester to argue the negative side of the question with an affirmative team representing Sacred Heart High School.

Another victory, although a close one, was enjoyed by our Affirmative Team when they won over the representatives of St. Bernard's High of Fitchburg. The order of our speakers was slightly changed in this debate owing to the previous illness of Rosemary Larkin who was not able to participate in the preliminaries. She now replaced Robert Reardon who took over his regular duties as alternate.

We were now eligible to participate in the finals against Cathedral High of Springfield. We were very nervous until word was received from Dr. Rooney that the Negative of St. Mary's be ready to travel to Springfield. The debate was a close one but the judges decided that the Springfield team had the edge. Therefore, we bowed to defeat and consoled ourselves with the fact that we had been in the finals for two successive years.

Richard Gallagher.

Assemblies

The assemblies of the year 1943-44 have brought into view gifted students of which St. Mary's may be justly proud. During the year we have been privileged to hear the best St. Mary's has to offer in the way of talent on several occasions.

Assemblies were held:

October 11, Columbus Day
November 10, Armistice Day
December 23, Christmas Party
February 11, Lincoln's Day

February 21, Washington's Day
March 16, St. Patrick's Day
April 18, Patriot's Day
May 26, Class Day

It was at the first assembly of the year held October 11, to honor Columbus, that we had the pleasure and privilege of hearing for the first time, Miss Patricia Molloy, a new-comer to St. Mary's with a truly beautiful voice. Pat's rendition of "America, the Beautiful" followed by the "Serenade" still lingers on, as a very pleasant memory of our school days.

On these special occasions, as indeed our assemblies are, we awaited with enthusiastic anticipation for the piano selections of our red-headed star, John Murphy, whose renditions of classical and popular music certainly met with everyone's approval.

During the year we have heard several humorous recitations by Mary O'Neil, in her own appealing style, which have led us to recognize her ability and the brilliant future in store for her.

The forceful voice of Avis Hubbard who helped bring the Bishop Thomas M. O'Leary Debating Trophy home to stay, has echoed thru the hall many times and has never ceased to please us. Her excellent speaking voice and sparkling personality insures success and the good wishes of her fellow - students will follow her wherever she may go.

Catherine Clement, another member of the debating team, whom our Pastor affectionately called "The Little Bantam" because of her keen fighting spirit has spoken many times, indeed a school activity would not seem complete without her. She has been a very valuable member of our class and has created a lasting impression upon our minds.

We will always remember Mary Keenan and Jean Letourneau whose voices are distinguished from all others by their sweetness of tone. Then, too the pleasing piano selections of Claire Dion and Madeline Cadorette, who also accompanied the sweet voice of Alice Luby in song. Last, but by no means least, the Choral recitations of the Senior Class and the selections of the Glee Club.

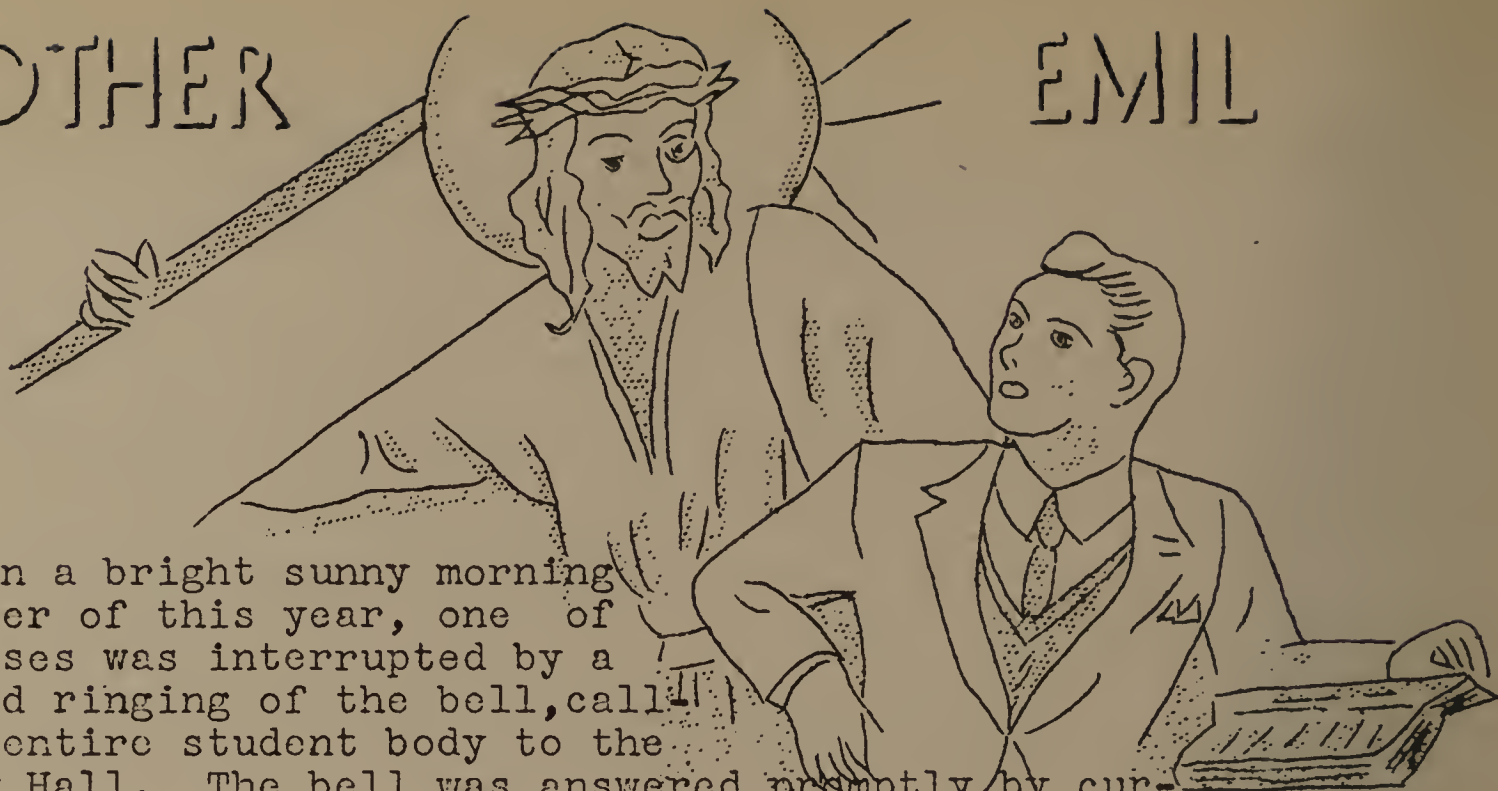

The Senior Class President, Hubert Keane also deserves a word of commendation because of his ability to rise to any occasion. He was always ready with a little word of welcome and conducted the programs in a creditable and pleasing manner.

Our assemblies were indeed profitable and entertaining, and each one of those days will live in our hearts forever.

BROTHER

EMIL

On a bright sunny morning in October of this year, one of our classes was interrupted by a prolonged ringing of the bell, calling the entire student body to the Assembly Hall. The bell was answered promptly by curious and anxious assemblers. When we were seated and the students were at ease we waited impatiently for whatever was to be in store for us. This assembly came without previous notice and no one knew of its advent, therefore, we were curious to know what was to occur.

A man, small in stature yet enormous in character, as we later discovered, appeared before us. All the characteristics of a man and soldier of Christ walked in with him. He wore a religious garb like that of our priests. This man of Christ was a worthy member of the Brotherhood of the Holy Cross. He was by name, Brother Emil.

His Mission was to inspire our boys to the Brotherhood. He was in himself an inspiration. He spoke to the boys as he has spoken to many others, to arouse their interest in God and His works. He gave an interesting and concise tale on the Brotherhood and stressed its differential qualities from that of the Priesthood. The life of a Brother is secluded, we do not hear too much about them. They are invaluable helpers in the saving of souls. Some spend their lives in the training and education of boys and young men. They sanctify themselves even while attending to the necessary domestic duties in the different communities; yet all are working for God, all are attempting to bring one soul nearer to the Sacred Heart.

Any boy in the student body must have been indescribably impressed by Brother Emil, not only by his speech but also by the man himself. He left pamphlets for anyone who was interested and an address for anyone to obtain more information.

This brother and his saintly manner left us, but spiritually and mentally, when ever the subject is recalled, we are overjoyed at the fact that we have had the opportunity and pleasure to witness assemblies such as this.

The dances which are held every year in St. Mary's auditorium offer ample opportunity for everyone to trip the "light fantastic." The season of 1943-44 opened with a dance conducted by the Sophomores, initiating the Freshmen. The Co-chairmen of the dance were Charles Bresnehan and Mary O'Neil. All participated in the dances, music being furnished by our own recording machine. A new dance called the "Matching Dance" was introduced and enjoyed by all. The evening came to a close after making many new acquaintances among the Freshmen.

Our second dance was held on October twenty-eighth, a Halloween Affair. This dance and party were sponsored by the Senior Classical. The Co-Chairmen of the gala affair being William Kirley and Rosarie Edwards. The hall was colorfully decorated in orange and black. Dance favors consisted of orange witches and black cats. The boys wore white skull-heads on their lapels. In the course of the evening bobbing for apples was one of the most hilarious games. Later in the evening, everyone joined in the ever popular "Virginia Reel." Prizes were awarded to the two who wore the funniest costumes. All departed from this gathering accompanied with a true sense of Halloween spirit and fun.

Armistice Day brought with it a football game between the Juniors and Seniors. A victory dance was held in the evening by the Juniors in honor of the Seniors. The Cheerleaders of both of the classes were arrayed in their colorful outfits of blue and white. Both teams were summoned into the hall, while cheers were rendered by the cheering sections in honor of the sportsmanship both teams had displayed earlier in the day. Dancing followed in which everyone participated.

Thanksgiving was approaching and a dance was sponsored by the Junior Class. The hall was daintily decorated in the autumnal colors of brown and yellow. The chairmen of this dance were John Rice and Jean McCarthy. The waltzes and fox-trots were set aside for the later part of the evening for the old-fashioned square dance, the Virginia Reel. Following this, everyone took part in the ever favorite "Going to Jerusalem Dance." Prizes were given to the finalists, John Rice and Rosemary Larkin. The LaConga line was then formed and the evening closed with a bang.

We are all looking forward to future dances here at St. Mary's particularly the Junior and Senior Proms. They have always been a promoter of friendship and a splendid example of school unity of spirit.

ROLLER SKATING VANITIES

Tuesday, the eighteenth of April, the year nineteen hundred and forty-four, dawned bright and glorious. The day didn't prove to be a very calm one, mentally, at least, as all eyes looked toward the evening's big event.

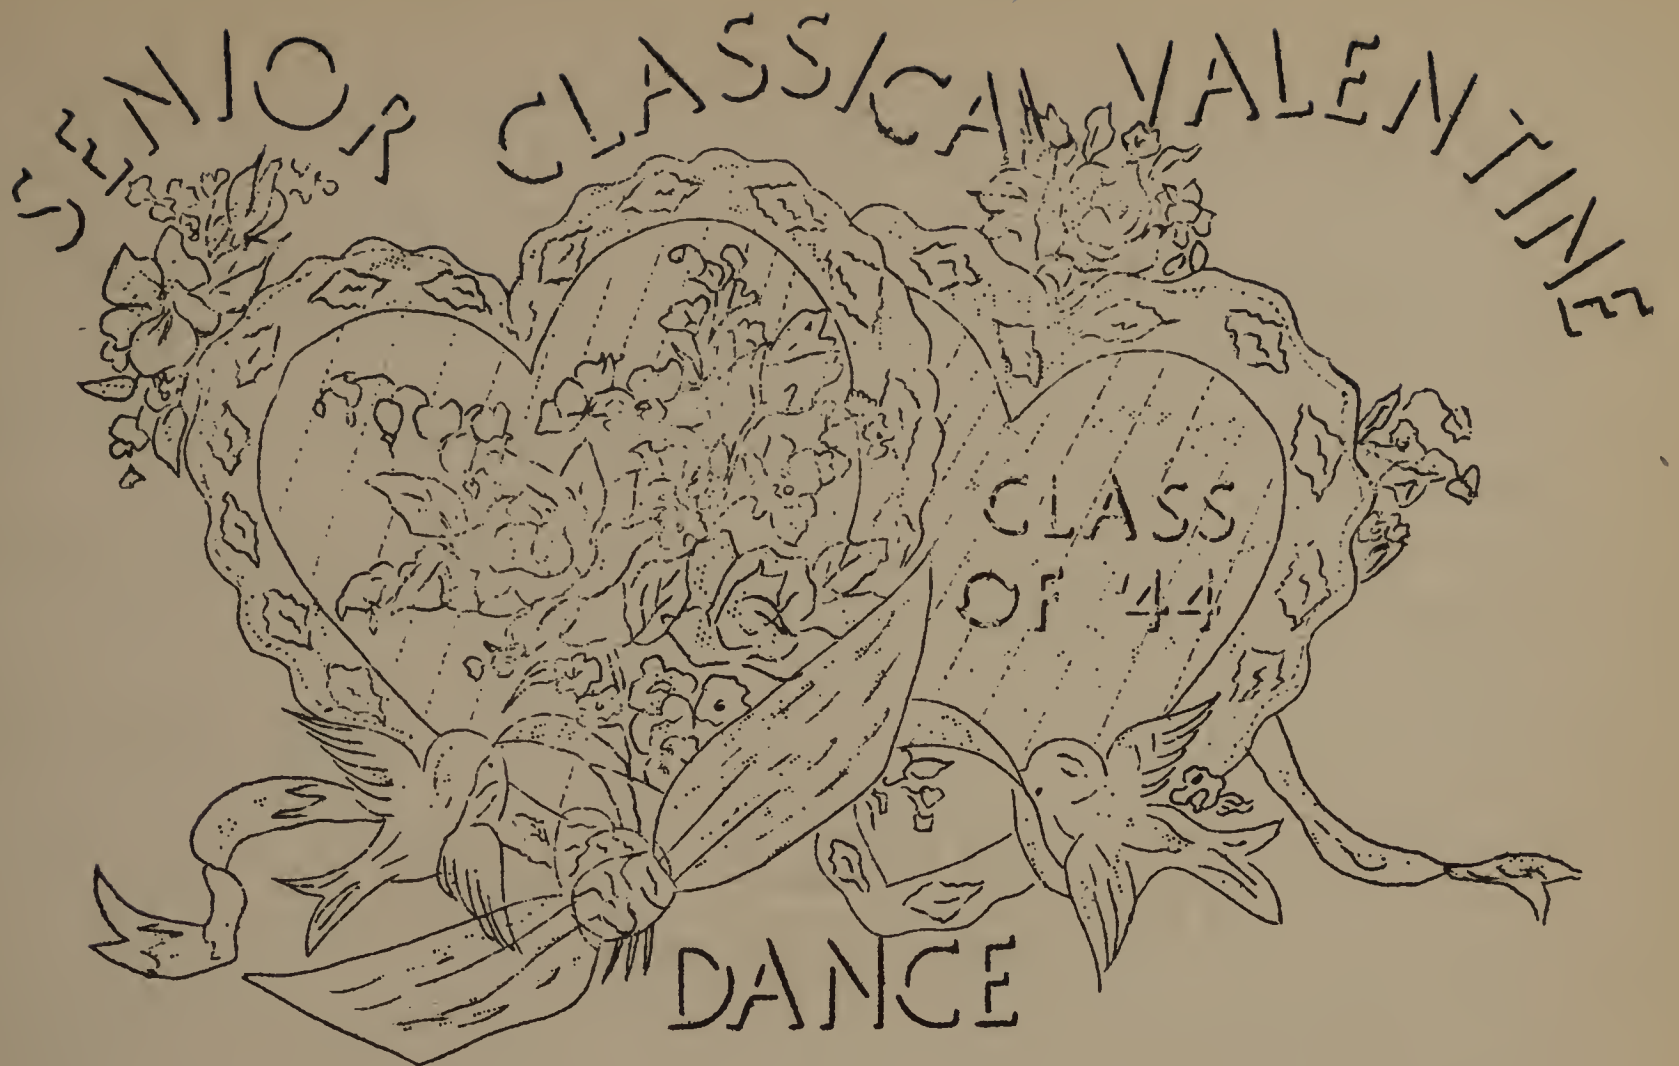

Leaving Milford about five-thirty, we, the cheerleaders of St. Mary's were enjoying the fulfillment of a promise made by Father Carberry to attend a show in Boston. Those who were thus rewarded were: Barbara Summers, Jean McCormack, Jean Clement, Cecelia Summers, Louise Arsenault and Jean Madden. We left Milford in two cars, arriving in Boston about eight-thirty. The remembrance of the trip will be a lasting one as we encountered so many interesting as well as laughable scenes. All went well until we reached Commonwealth Avenue. One car had a slight???accident, a flat tire. As the auto began jogging from side to side, one cheerleader was unconcerned for she believed that she was on the car tracks.

After a few laughs repairs began. Two workers and one supervisor lent their time. In the meantime, the remaining occupants of the cars enjoyed a supper at a Howard Johnson restaurant. The meal was over in about twenty minutes as all were anxious to continue the trip to Boston Gardens.

Equipped with a new tire, we glided over the roads, finally reaching our destination in time for the first act.

The lights were darkened, everyone became quiet and the curtain rolled up. The first performance assured us that we were about to witness an exceptional show. The Russian and Southern scenes held everyone's interest for quite some time, as the costumes were the envy of all. Act after act thrilled us even more than the preceding one. As the last skater made her way from the floor our hearts saddened as we realized this beautiful show was over.

However, on the way home, all were certain that these memories would linger long in our minds and were glad that we were chosen to act as leaders of the cheering squad. Those and other events like these, are what make high school days happy and enjoyable.

Valentine's Day made its appearance during this famous leap year of 1944 with brilliant colors and grand array at the hall of St. Mary's High School. The Senior Classical went all out for a successful dance and its efforts were not in vain. The hostesses set out eagerly to provide a good time for their guests.

The Honorable Chairman was none other than our class president---Hubert Keane, Seaman Second Class. The co-chairmen were Helen Charge and Albert Sayles. The Entertainment Committee called for the helping hands of William Albin, Richard Gallagher, Joseph McKiernan, and David Moroney. The Music Committee included Robert Howland, Robert Donovan, Jeanette Smith and Catherine Clement. Favors were provided by Jean McCormick and Louise Arsenault, as co-chairmen, with Mary Kennedy, Marie Kilburn, Mary Connors, Margaret Bowen, Jean DesBarres, Catherine Bliss, Theresa Carey, and Louise Gaffney assisting. The Publicity committee included Barbara Summers, Chairman, assisted by Francis Nugent. Barbara's attractive red and white heart - shaped poster on the Bulletin Board, with its old-fashioned lace lettering was decidedly unique. Those who helped provide prizes were Helen Kittredge, chairman, Dora Porzio, Florence Mahoney, and Doris Malley. Jeanne Madden headed the Committee on Specialty Numbers and was assisted by Rosarie Edwards and Francis McNamara.

All the guest enjoyed a good time, having fun, not only dancing, but participating in the games that filled the hall with laughter.

Marie Lynch's name was drawn for the door prize and Elizabeth Rooney and Francis Hourihan won the prize in the "Going to Jerusalem" game.

We must not neglect to mention the fact that another member of the class, Leo Benoit, of the Navy, was also reunited on this joyous occasion with his classmates.

Mary Keenan hushed the fun-makers with the delighted song, "Say a Prayer for the Boys Over There."

Everyone went home at eleven o'clock with a happy heart, and a memorable night was tucked away on their "Good-things - to-remember" list.

SENIOR FAREWELL DANCE COMMERCIAL

A festive celebration was sponsored by the Senior Commercial Class of '44, January 21, 1944, in honor of Robert Sullivan a former classmate, who left the following day for the United States Navy. The Senior Commercial Class has had the distinction of holding the first school social affair since the recent renovation of the school auditorium.

The guest of honor was feted by a large number of fellow students as well as friends from without the school. Later in the evening, the guests were favored with a speech from the guest of honor.

Although all were aware of Robert's eminent departure, nevertheless, the festive spirit was not omitted, but rather intensified.

The committee was as follows:

JUNIOR DRAMATICS

On December 22, the Junior Class presented two one-act plays. Christmas Tide was the theme of both plays which exhibited outstanding talent and considerable time spent in preparation on the part of all concerned.

Congratulations are in order for Sister Imelda for the one and only successful production of dramatics.

We had as honored guests, our Reverend Pastor, Father Foran, and Father Carberry, Father O'Day, Father Donahue and Father Pitroff.

The cast for each play is as follows:

freshmen sophomore
 junior Oratorical finalists

According to tradition, the annual "Under-Graduate" Oratorical Contests were held during the first quarter of the school year.

Each member of the individual classes was obliged to participate, and the outstanding speakers were chosen, by Rev. Thomas Carberry, for the semi-finals.

The Semi-finals numbered thirty-six, of which twelve survived for the finals. The Semi-finals were judged by the Senior debaters.

At eight o'clock on the evening of November 29, 1943, the finalists presented themselves before the public. The following students and their selections were as follows:

1. Jean Clement	Death of Roberpierre
2. Elia Dell'Orco	The Inventor's Wife
3. Anne Des Barres	The Death of Mme. Defarge
4. Raymond Donovan	Our Country
5. Catherine Flaherty	Heroism and History
6. Richard Griffin	Star Spangled Banner
7. Avis Hubbard	A Love Story of Old Madrid
8. Mary Keenan	Creation
9. Rose Mary Larkin	The Death of Ivan Ilyitch
10. Mary O'Neil	Self-Control
11. John Rice	Hands in Prayer
12. Elizabeth Rooney	The Wasp

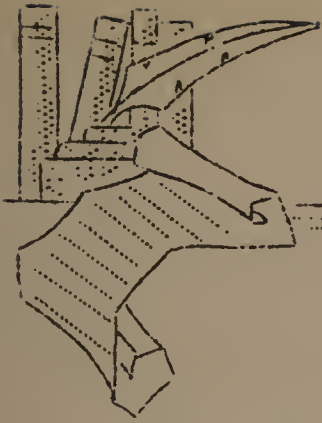

First prize was presented to Avis Hubbard, for her magnificent presentation of a dramatic scene, "A Love Story of Old Madrid."

Second prize was presented to Mary O'Neil, for her humorous presentation of "Self-Control," which lifted the spirits of the audience.

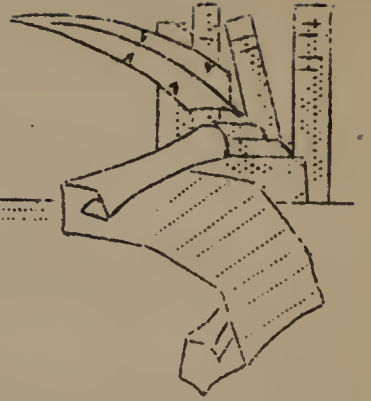

Catherine Flaherty was awarded third prize, for her up-to-date subject of "Heroism and History." The manner of her presentation touched the heart of those who heard her.

The awards were presented by Father Foran, who also congratulated the other participants, who were awarded condolence prizes.

The Board of Honorable Judges was comprised of Paul Raftery, Director of Vocational Education, Attorney William Moore of this town, and Miss Margaret Corcoran, Teacher at Spruce Street School.

Class Will

We are honored to have the Quiz Kids in our midst to help us bestow gifts upon these unfortunates called Juniors.

'Tis certainly laughable to stand and look the Junior Class straight in the eye. I never saw such a mess. Everyone looks scared. Don't look so down-hearted, we'll go easy with your checkered careers.

Now Quiz Kids and fellow Classmates, I have a real treat in store for you, which will prove to be profitable to the Juniors as well as amusing to you. They will gain many unsurpassable luxuries possessed, up until this time, by Seniors alone. But remember, we are not affiliated with Santa Claus, therefore, we cannot bargain to fill Doris Peloquin's stockings.

Please understand, third year illiterates, we don't want you to think we have been severe or made things up about you for personal reasons. We have a duty to perform and we're going to do it.

Seniors, our heirs will oblige us by coming to the front of the stage and facing the assembly.

The Quiz Kids -	Francis McNamara	Catherine Clement
	Jeannette Smith	Richard Gallagher

To our beloved pastor, Father Foran, we leave a hypodermic needle hoping the knowledge that is infused through it will have as great an effect on the Junior Class as it has had on the present Seniors.

To Father Nally, we leave a soft pillow. When the time comes to give out next year's Senior report cards, we want you to have something soft to sit on. The shock will be unbearable.

Q. Quiz Kids, what can we bequeath to Father Carberry?

A. For his very self-effacing support of all school activities, we leave him the splendid athletes of the Sophomore Class.

Whereas, the Assembly Hall is very large and whereas, the Freshmen are very small, and whereas, our Mentors, the Sisters, have the arduous desire of preserving something that cannot exist, while the present Juniors are here, namely, order in said Assembly Hall, and whereas, we feel said duty is most wearing on the nerves, temper and particularly on the varnish of the desks of the Sisters, therefore by us, the Class of 1944, be it here RESOLVED, that we, for the welfare of humanity, and Sister Superior especially, and the cause of the wrongly oppressed, namely, the long suffering desks, do hereby petition the Board of Education of the town of Milford to provide or secure a small electric or steam hammer and set it up on the stage of said Assembly Hall as a perpetual memorial of their philanthropy and of the wisdom of the Class of 1944.

Grace (Let's get lost) Miller ---- A bell, presented by your sister Marguerite, will prove very useful to you, Grace. This will enable you to arouse Eddie without resorting to the gentle means you used the night of the Senior Halloween Dance. Quiz Kids tell the assembly of this incident.

I believe it would be sufficient to tell them to read the story of "Sleeping Beauty". The details are slightly turned about in this case, however.

Don't be in such a hurry to sit down, Grace. Remain standing. Eddie (Prince Charming) Bagley ---- Francis McNamara leaves you his ability to sing, "Charmer". How can we put this gift to a test, Kids?

Today is Grace's Birthday. She would cherish it very much if he sang her a song. "Happy Birthday To You" is the selection.

Jean (Bloodhound) Clement ---- The Senior Girls leave you a bicycle to enable you to travel up and down Main Street more swiftly looking for Richie, Joe and the rest.

Jean (Waitin' at the Gate) Gallagher --- Quiz Kids, can anyone tell me how Jean came by this unusual name?

It seems that a few weeks before the prom, Jean all but had her bed in McCann's. However, after anxious moments, the scene of invitation took place in school. We present you with a box of nervine to help you through the next ordeal.

Eleanor (There it goes again) Barron ---- An alarm clock to you "Misser" to help you remember the time the last bus leaves to Uxbridge. Guests, why does Miss Barron always miss the last bus for home.

You know how it is when you get wrapped up (in your thoughts). Besides, it's more comfortable riding home in the family car.

John (Western Style) Hennessy, Harriet (Ration Point Blues) Goddard and Doris (I'm only 150) Pelouquin ----- What will be appropriate for these three, Quiz Kids?

No doubt they have been annoyed in the past owing to the amount of flesh they have carried, so we leave them a bottle of anti-fat. If they use it we'll all see its wonderous effects.

Particia (I'll be around) Molloy ---- On every occasion the class has made good use of you as a vocalist. Thinking that you had probably exhausted your music supply, we have invested in some new popular hits. Tell the assembly the name of one of them?

"Why do they always run away?"

Now, Patricia, why didn't you give Hubert a chance?

Cecelia (I won't get caught) Summers ---- Doris Mally leaves you her stone door-step. When Sister Elizabeth Mary calls "Cast your anchor", kindly use it.

Joan McCarthy, Irene Mee, Elizabeth Manlanson and Mary Moran - What can we present this quartet, Kids?

We leave these the lunchroom sink. Since they run around as chickens do, neither will know how to use it.

Ray (Stogie) Edwards -- Bill Albin bequeaths a wireless to you. Why will he need it, Quiz Kids?

When Ed. Bagley's mother calls the Edwards' residence, any message can be relayed without delay to a busy night spot, somewhere between here and Mendon.

Elden (I know my way about) Barrows--We leave a pair of glasses to you, Elden. Save them until next Christmas.

Donald (I try to be shy) Gaffney -- A shade is what the Seniors leave you for the window at the Stop and Shop. It will protect you from the gaze of the public when you glance at the Cashier.

Marie (Keeping it private) Lynch -- We bequeath a box of stationery in view of the fact that she keeps up a correspondence with a sailor named Murphy.

Avis (I am not the jealous kind Hubbard) -- A mask of your likeness with a perpetual smile upon it is the Seniors' gift to you. It will help you to hide your emotions.

Esther (You shock me) Hannigan -- We leave you part of the discarded rectory fence to help you to build up your reserve.

Francis (I didn't hear the bell) Morin -- A halter we give you, the other end in the hands of Sr. Joseph Anne so that she can pull you into French Class.

Kenny (Don't blame it on me) Goodnow -- A gas mask to help you to live through those trying days when garlic emanates from your desk.

Ray (C.A.P. Authority) Morin--A hearing device to enable you to hear the Commander's instructions at the weekly meetings.

Betty Rooney -- A plaque suitably engraved with your motto "Stabil-ity is everything in life."

Bill (Longfellow) Luby -- Jeanette Smith leaves you her dramatic ability to help you to make your poems more convincing.

Dorothy (Pin up Girl) Fitzpatrick -- Jean DesBarres leaves you a large handkerchief to use the next time you have trouble with the boss about attracting too many non-paying customers.

Robert (Ask your Sister) Kearnan -- A book entitled "Answers to all Questions." To be used when Cecelia's little brother puts you through the third degree.

Christie (The bigger the better) Frabotta -- A pad and pencil to record his frequent excursions and clear up a mystery.

Joe (Star Gazer) Altieri -- A pair of opera glasses to assist you in your work, and at the same time permit you to look at the girl in the house across the street.

Nelson (Goon Sinatra) Coley -- Cupid's bow and arrow for you, Nelson, so that you can make a blond Senior, Smitty, sit up and take notice.

Barbara (I like "hicks") Sears -- a broom so that when the farmer from West Medway comes, she can sweep the hay out after him.

Mary (They're either too young or too old) Keenan-- We leave a whistle. This will enable you to save your voice when calling one of the Reardon boys.

Bob (Hedy my Hedy) Reardon -- Helen Kittredge leaves you a book written by Charles Boyer to help you on your career as a great Romeo.

JUNIOR PROM ORCHESTRA

PROM

St. Mary's High School has staged many a successful social gathering but none can compare with the Junior Prom held April 22 1944. It was the most colorful event of the entire school year and those who attended were unanimous in their enthusiasm.

The committees in charge deserve much praise for the work they did and for the spirit of co-operation which distinguished them as a class. In fact, without the perfect team work, the Prom would have been just another dance and not the outstanding and high class gathering that it proved to be.

The Assembly Hall which was recently redecorated lent itself well to the efforts of the decorators under the able supervision of Ann O'Brien. The enlarged platform was transformed into a rock garden having for a background a trellis covered with tiny rambler roses. Green grass covered the platform itself and large baskets of flowers were artistically placed. In this flowery bower, was the orchestra of Art Barsey dressed in sombre evening clothes and giving a touch of dignity to the spring gaiety. Soft light fell upon the musicians from delicately tinted floor lamps. In harmony with the color scheme of the rock garden, the rest of the hall was gay with streamers in pastel shades fluttering in the breeze. Windows and doors were also decorated with the school letters, and ribbons. The Juniors did not confine their artistic skill alone to the assembly hall for they had the front entrance converted into a fairy bower of loveliness. Here sat the ticket collector passing out dainty programs with pencils. But it would take pages to describe adequately the scene and even then it is doubtful that mere words could do it, therefore, I pass on to the more important part of the Prom - the boys and girls who attended.

There were about eighty couples in attendance. The boys wore evening suits and the girls evening gowns. It was a scene of grace and beauty which we shall not soon forget. The grand march began at about ten o'clock and was led by Robert Reardon, Class President, and Jean Clement. The last sweet note floated out over a happy and well-satisfied group of young people who reluctantly left what they agreed was the best Prom ever held at St. Mary's.

SMILES

What is a smile? Webster's definition that a smile is a peculiar contraction of the features may be true, but does this really define the word? Does it go behind the facial distortion of a smile to learn what lies in the mind and heart of the smiler?

Have you ever heard the remark that smiles is the longest word in the dictionary, because there is a mile between the two s's? This could not be more true. There is a mile-----a mile of laughter, tears, joy, peace and even anguish lying behind a smile.

Have you ever seen a mother bidding her only son goodbye--with a smile on her face--but a tear in her eye? Or the smile of a dying man--one who knows that his life has been good and right--going to meet his Maker?

Have you noticed, by the way, the smile on a young person's face? In this smile is etched the very joy of living; the love of life and all its attributes; the thought of a tomorrow to come. A tomorrow bringing dreams into reality; a new day--a new life---a new peace. The smile of Youth is the smile of Victory.

And what of the smiles of the aged, you ask? Theirs is a smile of peace, too. It's a different peace, though. As they look back through the years, they see the joys and sorrows; the tears and smiles, that make up the patterns of their lives, they know how to smile. Whether the smile is joyous or bitter, happy, or sorrowful, must of a necessity depend on the life that is reviewed.

I think that the smile that came nearest my heart, was the smile of one who was in pain. He was a young lad, this sufferer, a boy of nineteen. He had just returned from the battlefield. He had lost the sight of both of his eyes, and there was no chance of recovery. Yet this helpless lad did more to cheer up the inmates of that hospital with his cheerful smile and voice than the nurses and doctors had accomplished in all the time they had been there. Does this sound unreasonable to you? The way that he expressed it was: Listen:

"It's this way. There's enough suffering and sorrow in this world right now without my adding to it. I'm not so badly off considering. At least now I can have a seeing-eye dog." And then his laugh rang out.

A laugh, a smile, a grin. That's America for you. And that too, is the strength of America's courage. Do you meet this standard? Do you know the meaning of a smile? I wonder.

But the church to which she referred had been closed for quite some time, by order of the Nazis. The incident I am about to relate occurred about three years ago. At that time peasants of the town, both old and young, were hanging wreathes in the church to prepare for the Christmas Celebration, when the Nazis soldiers entered this little Belgian town.

The night was very cold and these German soldiers were looking for a place to sleep and they selected the church because it was warm. Ordering the people out, they began putting the pews in the sanctuary and out side. In doing so, one of the soldiers hit the crib and the small crib and the small Statue of the Child Jesus fell to the floor. It fell right at Marie's feet and she picked it up promptly and ran from the church. The Statue was safe now for it was in a soft sweater in a box beneath her bed.

Reviewing these things she remembered that this night was Christmas Eve and she looked out the window toward the old church. Then she looked toward the sky but there wasn't even a star to change the dreariness of the Holy Eve.

Tenderly she lifted the small Statue from its hiding place. While she was doing this, she heard heavy marching. She was frightened at first for she thought the Germans were returning but as the tramping feet came nearer she heard soldiers singing a hymn which was familiar to her. She watched, she realized with a thrill of joy that they were Americans.

She was so happy that she began to cry for she knew that the old church would be opened again and that she could return the Statue.

The Catholic Chaplain of these marching men and few of the men went to the church and in a very short time had it prepared for Midnight Mass. The crib was also ready except that the Infant was still missing. The men and Chaplain looked everywhere for the Statue but in vain. The lights in the church attracted the people and they were all arriving to hear Mass.

Marie entered the church holding something wrapped in blue in her arms. She went toward the Crib and knelt before it. With a sob of joy at the reopening of the old church and the celebration of Mass, Marie placed the Infant in Its crib.

That Christmas was the best and happiest for these Belgians because they were freed from the iron hand of a dictator by a people who know what the Mass is and what it means.

MY IDEAL

My ideal is a person whom I will always strive to imitate. She lived on this earth over nineteen hundred years ago, yet, since that time, men have ever loved and venerated her. She did not live in a palace surrounded by servants; her home was a lowly cottage in Nazareth and she was espoused to a humble carpenter. What claim has she to fame? What makes this humble Jewess stand out from all other women? What prompts me, and girls like me, to choose her as a model and inspiration?

Her only claim to fame is the greatest honor that has ever come to any woman. Out of all the women in the world, she was chosen to be the Mother of God. In addition to being the Mother of God, she is also my Mother. Think of it! I can claim the Mother of God, the Queen of Heaven and earth, as my mother. I can go to her with my troubles, knowing that she will comfort me, knowing that she will intercede with God for me, because I am her child and she loves me.

When did she become my mother? She became my mother when her Son, dying on the Cross, gave her to me and to all mankind. God loved men so much that before He died He gave to them the dearest possession He had on this earth, His mother.

She is my ideal and the ideal of every Catholic girl, because in her life she manifested the virtues of true womanhood. She was the noblest and purest woman that ever lived. She shows every girl the way to become the kind of woman every man will respect. Every girl is the representative of the Blessed Mother of God.

Let us be worthy of her, girls, and be a true Child of Mary.

JUNIORS!

Farewell, dear Juniors,

And may you be worthy

Of the love of your teachers,

Their patience and work.

Our studies we thought

Were a burdensome lot,

But now it is over

And we are sad.

So take our advice

Be wise, young Juniors,

And keep on the beam

In your last year of high.

SOPHOMORES

A THRILL OF A LIFE TIME

Although most stories began with "Once upon a time, etc.", I am sure that you would enjoy a more original beginning as this is supposed to be a true story. You will like my story at least. I am quite sure each one of you in High School has undergone this experience at some time or other.

On a cold day in October, a group of boys and girls marched into a cold auditorium, shivering violently but it was not merely the cold that made them shiver, goodness, no! You've guessed it, it was the day for Sophomore Oratoricals.

I was sitting in the Second row, second seat from the left end, shivering with fear and cold and my knees were having a private shaking contest. We all thought that the other room was to be before us and when Father Carberry announced that Sister Joseph Anne's room was to recite first, I almost fainted for I barely knew my speech and was as nervous as a cat!

I counted the numbers on the program. I was to be number thirteen! Thirteen, of all numbers! Although I'm not superstitious, I didn't like it a bit. The boy on the stage called the first girl and she got up, recited and sat down again. Then numbers two, three, four did the same. Others repeated this action and I, quaking with fear, thought how lucky they were to have finished. Then my friend who sat beside me recited a funny piece. She seemed so at ease up there on the stage that I wondered how she did it. She gave her last word, stepped lightly from the stage and resumed her seat, smiling.

Two more and then---! It seemed like facing a firing squad. Was I frightened! The boy called my name and pronounced it wrong. I almost laughed. That made it a little easier. I stepped toward the stage and felt very awkward and clumsy. I knew my face was red with self-consciousness. I seldom looked at the audience. I was so frightened. My piece was rather sad and was supposed to be slow, but I don't know how I said it. It was just about three minutes long. I hoped that Father would ring the bell in order that I could be seated and listen to the others. I was so happy when I said my last word "you", and with a light heart tripped off the stage so fast that the noise of my heels beat a heavy tap on the floor of the platform.

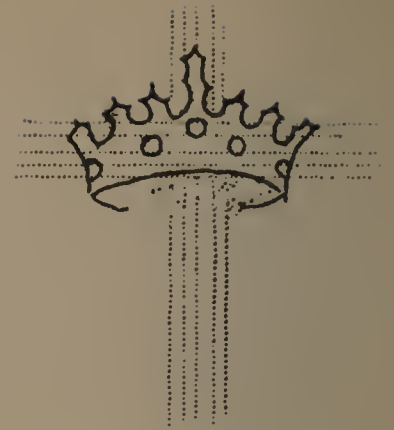

What a blessed relief it was to get back to my seat. I felt like singing but remembering where I was I checked the inclination.

This real experience will live long in my memory as I am sure similar experiences haunt the souls of other poor would-be orators.

HONESTY

JOSEPH KING '48

"Honesty is the best policy." Today it seems that many people have gotten far away from this proverb. In fact, we sometimes ask the question, "Is anyone honest?"

People in all walks of life have resorted to trickery, thieving and lies. The politicians, who run our government, have made so many misstatements, that they are distrusted in all their actions.

Even children sometimes take what does not belong to them. They do not follow the lesson taught by the Seventh Commandment of God, "Thou shalt not steal." Instead their parents approve of self-expression which means doing and saying whatever they wish. The movies also have taught children dishonest tricks. They think it is the smart thing to do. Checks and double-checks are required in the rationing system to be sure no one cheats. Still many do cheat. People must be compelled to do right. Very few do so voluntarily. The Office of Price Administration was created for this purpose as well as our police force.

A story was told of a man visiting the South. He asked a colored man if his neighbors were honest.

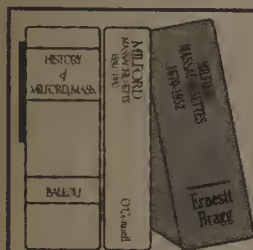

"Yas sir, dey am."

"But," said the man, "I notice that you keep a loaded shotgun near your orchard and watermelon patch."

"Dat," said he, "am to keep dem honest."

Therefore, I would say, we need to give the Ten Commandment more thought and study.

MILFORD MOMENTS[©]

By Paul Curran, Town Crier Columnist

Picture Perfect

Late in March of 1944, 31 young women arrived at the Hopedale Community House to participate in a "Capping" there. They were led by Mrs. Lloyd Fitzgerald, their nurse instructor for the class.

Representatives from the Red Cross Worcester Chapter were speakers and Mrs. Fitzgerald received praise for her loyal work and was presented with flowers and a gift from the class.

The local Red Cross Volunteer Nurses Aid committee directed all activities of the Nurses' Aides and was represented at the meeting with Chairman Mrs. Hamilton Thayer presiding as master of ceremonies.

As a member of this committee and a representative of the medical staff at the Milford Hospital, Dr. Joseph Ashkins spoke a few words telling the aides how appreciative the doctors are of their work in the hospital.

With the awarding of the "Caps" the young women were acknowledged to be "trained to work under the supervision of graduate nurses in the Milford Hospital."

After the ceremonies finished and before the punch and cake were served in the lounge the class photo, seen here, was arranged and taken. Fifty-six years later an original copy came my way when I visited Hazel (McNiff) Young and her husband Merton at their Wellesley home. Hazel is seen here.

From a photographer's viewpoint, this is an exceptional photo for such a large group. Think of your class reunion photos—even by professionals—and someone has closed their eyes or the head in the wrong way. This is a unified group at full attention; it is their photo on their day and they are the picture of their success.

There is no credit for the photographer. Recent research has led me to think that the Draper Corp. would have sent their Photo Department to handle the assignment for the Milford Hospital. The names that I remember as Draper photo men were Charlie Shanahan and Bernie E. Norton. I have spoken with Arnold Nealley of Hopedale and he mentions Andrew Nealley, but I can't connect him to the photo department in 1944.

Hazel and Merton Young were married at St. Mary's by Rev. Joseph Lacey in April of 1949. A few days ago I spoke with their firstborn, Claudia. I had photographed her, in Mendon, where the Youngs had settled. I next saw at her mother's wake in Wellesley Hills. Her father is still alive. I am still thankful for the gift of the photo seen here. Claudia has described her mother "as a very special person." That was so true to all of her family and friends.

Many of the people in the photo are now gone. I see Poppy Ramelli is still here as is June (Malloy) Wright. I hope that others are and that you can tell us the names of anyone that you see. I hope this will be a great memory trip for many.

"A man's real possession is his memory.
In nothing else is he rich.
In nothing else is he poor."

Take a few moments to look over the photograph and see how many of the graduates you can name. We are giving a prize to the reader who submits the most correct names. To enter our contest, name the nurses aides, left to right starting with the back row. There are 56 women. Submit your guess to Jane Bigda, Town Crier editor, 48 Mechanic St., Upton, MA 01568 or by email to milfordtowncrier@charter.net.

The deadline for entries is May 4. Names of the nurses aides and winner of our contest will be announced in our May 14 Milford Town Crier. Good luck!

Police Chief for the Day

By Adele Miller

Staff Reporter/columnist

Eighth grader Celina Jones had an air of confidence about her as she sat behind the big desk at the Milford Police Station, getting ready for her day as Chief of the Milford Police Department. Although she later admits to having a little case of the nerves, March 26 ended up being a day that Celina described as "amazing."

Celine Jones (center) started her day off with the guys.

By Kevin Rudden

Staff Reporter/columnist

Selectman Brian W. Murray won a year term on the Board of Selectmen in election, easily outpolling political newcomer by winning 64 percent of the vote to W a 2,292 to 1,243 race. Town Clerk Amy the 3,605-person voter turnout – only 16,620 registered voters – as "very low."

In only other contested races, John D'Alessandro were elected to the Board three-year terms, and Joseph F. Arcu and Raymond G. Pagucci, Jr. were re-elected. Clement and Joseph A. Palladini were elected to three-year terms.

"I would have been happier if I won," said Murray. "I'm disappointed. I worked hard, but I didn't win." Murray refused to speak to the press about the election results.

"I feel sensational. It's amazing," said Murray, whose been on the losing side, winning 64 percent of the vote. D'Alessandro called the process of running for office "a very fun time learning the ropes."

All other candidates running for major office were unopposed. Incumbents re-elected were: Treasurer (three-year term) 2561 votes; Board of Health (three-year term) 2561 votes; Board of Assessors (three-year term) 2561 votes.

Throughout the day Celina visited different parts of the police station. One stop was the interrogation room; "it was just like the movies," she recalled. She also saw the shooting range, learned about the investigation process, rode in a police car, and used a radar detector to determine car speeds.

The opportunity came about from the generosity of Rob Bonnell of Worldband Communications in Milford. Bonnell purchased the day "as part of the Milford Chamber of Commerce annual auction" and then donated it to the 8th graders at Middle School East. Principal Craig Consigli, along with staff, created an essay contest to select the student who would participate.

Students were asked to write an essay addressing the questions: What is the most important right we have as American citizens and why? What responsibilities do you have as a result of this right? What role do policemen have in protecting that right?

Celina's essay addressed just those questions, with a focus on the first amendment, writing, "The first amendment, is an amendment that shall never be forgotten or regretted because the U.S. might not have been the same as it is today without it."

Although Celina doesn't know what she wants to be when she grows up, law enforcement "is actually an option for me."

Bonnell, president and owner of WorldBand, works with 14 police stations locally. He said that when he saw the Chief for the Day certificate at the auction, he "knew it could be put to good use."

He added, "Eighth grade is the best year for this kind of thing, Celina will have a great day here."

St. Thomas Aquinas Circle

The students of St. Mary's High School are very proud to claim for their patron of learning, St. Thomas Aquinas.

On the feast of this great doctor of the church, March 7 1939, Reverend John P. Donahue who was then principal of St. Mary's High School, instituted the Honor Circle.

To become an ordinary member of this circle, a student must attain the average of 85% in four subjects, including Religion. Those who acquire an average of 85% or over in all subjects, belong to the Honor Roll with Distinction. Naturally, everyone tries for that honor, and the Class of '44 can proudly claim that they had the glory of earning this honor many a time during their four years in St. Mary's High School.

In the first few years of the Circle, Father Donahue invited all those who had acquired membership to a banquet in Hopedale. These memorable gatherings are remembered with pleasure by the older grads. The dinner itself always proved to be par-excellent, then in addition there were speeches, music and a general good time.

Since the war, these happy occasions have had to be relinquished, but the Circle is still an enviable honor.

Much can be said about the life of St. Thomas but the most outstanding trait in his life was the fact that he mixed sanctity with work. He is a saint every student of St. Mary's has tried to imitate.

AUTOGRAPHS

When I was five years of age, I went to Boston with my mother and father, I had such an exciting adventure I have never forgotten it. First my dad purposely parked our car in Forest Hills so I could ride on the elevated cars.

Our next adventure was to the different stores looking at the beautiful Christmas scenes. In one window there was a Santa Claus lying in bed and wiggling his toes while his wife, sitting on a chair near by, was rocking back and forth knitting.

In another window was a scene of the Holy Babe of Bethlehem. Angels were around Him kneeling at the foot of His cradle and the people came from surrounding towns and cities bringing gifts to the New - Born King of the world.

It was noon time when my dad said, "Don't you think it is time for us to eat? You won't enjoy your visit with Santa unless you have a good dinner." So we had a wonderful dinner and a short rest. Then, we continued our Christmas frolic.

In one of the stores I bought a ticket for fifty cents. This was to pay for the gift Santa would give me and also entitled me to ride on a small boat through the tunnels that brought me to Santa's beautiful house.

I met a girl about my own age who went in the boat with me. He asked us if we were good girls and what we wanted. Santa's son was there also; he was about five years of age. Santa then told us to again get into the boat and go through another tunnel to his store where one of his helpers would give us a gift.

Then a little man took us through a very dark tunnel. We rode for about ten minutes. We got into the trains and rode for quite a distance. When the train stopped we got out and went up on a high platform that kept on bouncing up and down. We sat down on some chairs and slid right down through a dark chute.

We had lots of fun. The elves made every child sing and dance. Then Santa's little son and daughter jitterbugged. They were twins about eleven years old. Then Santa's other son sang and danced also. We had refreshments. Santa and his children were disguised for we know now that we are older, that there is no Santa.

After that, we had some ice-cream, cake and candy. We went through Santa's toy shop looking at the beautiful gifts. Santa gave us all gifts. I received a wooden doll and a whole box of candy and lollypops. When it was time to leave, we didn't go back the way we came.

Seated in the boat, we went through the tunnel and came back to Santa's castle. Again the elf handed me another gift which proved to be a paint set. As we left, more children passed on their way to their fun, but we had to leave. We thought that perhaps next year we could come again. We then joined our parents ready for more fun, but we didn't have as much fun as on our first trip to Santa's house.

Then tired but happy we rode on the elevator to Forest Hills where our car was parked. I will never forget my trip to Toyland.

MEET THE FRESHMEN

The reason why Freshmen are so often ignored is because no one ever takes time to stop, think and realize how important the Freshmen really are.

It must be admitted that we Freshmen have on more occasions than one demonstrated the reason for our title. But imagine a high school without any Freshmen!

The Seniors, we admit, are most important but are far too dignified and serious minded. Their minds perhaps are taxed with all the extra knowledge they have acquired since they were Freshmen.

And even the Juniors have shown many times these faults so annoying to those possessing a more cheerful and a happier state of mind.

The Sophomores, who have not yet reached the serious stage, are on the other hand far too giddy. They are forever running about as though anxious to show off the little knowledge they possess.

Now in a small, insignificant class, we find a happy medium. Here, students are not too serious nor yet too foolish. Though they do not claim to be perfect, they are by far the most commendable in the high school. Can you guess the class or must we tell you?

Why the Freshmen Class--of course!

THE AUDITORIUM

The class of '44 has had the privilege of being among the first to hold any social event in our newly renovated hall. For this privilege we are both proud and thankful. And we owe our thanks for this and many other things to Father Carberry who has done much to help St. Mary's since his arrival in Milford.

A graduate of St. Mary's would hardly recognize the hall now, for the large blackboard in back of the stage has been removed and the stage itself has been widened, and the walls have been tinted a delicate peach shade.

The first social event which took place in the re-decorated hall was a farewell dance given for Robert Sullivan by the Senior Commercial Class. Then came Senior Oratoricals, and the Junior Prom, and Senior Hop. And at each of these, the beauty of the hall seemed to add to the enjoyment of all, and made us prouder than ever of St. Mary's High School.

ORATORICAL JITTERS

MARIE
MAHER

Helen was the first speaker of the day, then Jean and all too soon the long dreaded moment arrived. It was my turn to stand before my school mates and orate.

This being my first appearance, I fully expected to be nervous and timid but how feebly those words express the real sensation of a girl facing for the first time a public audience.

The entire student body was gathered in the Assembly on that warm spring day to witness my agony. I arose and with a powerful effort to maintain at least the appearance of calm dignity, I walked or ran or wobbled up to my place, even now I cannot remember how I arrived but I do remember the sea of faces before me and most of them with blurred smiles. I tried to recall all the instructions about position, voice and all the rest but in vain. I stuttered through "The Lost Word" gulped and then "By Henry VVVan DDyke."

My knees! Would they hold me up? My voice! It sounded like the voice of some stranger afar off. Somehow I struggled through the first paragraph, omitted the second entirely, got the fourth and fifth out of place and then something snapped. My smiling audience may not even have noticed the pause, but in that breathless moment, I got a new hold on myself. Others had gone through this ordeal and became finalists and debaters. I wouldn't give up.

Strange the effect that decision had upon my knees, they immediately began to get steady and my voice sounded friendly and familiar as I began the fifth paragraph. My vision too had cleared and the smiling and attentive faces of the boys and girls brought me renewed confidence. In the back seat John was laughing, but even that disconcerting fact did not upset me. On through the essay with only one prompting. It might not have been a masterpiece of elocution but I stayed to the end.

It was over at last and I stepped light heartedly across the stage and down to my place and then a very queer sensation had come over me. I felt foggy and dreamy, and then from somewhere in the distance a voice was calling me. I aroused myself and I looked about me in surprise for there was no platform and no audience. And the voice was that of my Mother calling me to get up and reminding me that today is the day of the oratoricals.

I sigh deeply as I dress and think of going through my ordeal a second time.

It was a lovely August day when my father and I started out for Provincetown. I was seven and very much excited, for this was my first long trip. As we rode along, my father pointed out many things to interest me, which made the ride a very pleasant one.

We were soon speeding along the fine highway that leads to the Cape Cod canal and the beautiful Bourne Bridge. As we passed over this wonderful structure, my father told me about the canal and why it had been dug. I was more interested in the many kinds of boats sailing so far below me.

After we had crossed the bridge the time seemed to go very fast. It was a beautiful drive along Cape Cod's south shore, and although the day had become very warm, there was a gentle breeze from the ocean which made our ride a comfortable one.

As we came nearer to Provincetown the road along the north shore and the road along the south shore met and became one road. This road was not very wide and one had to watch it constantly to avoid an accident. The Cape had become so narrow now that as we rode along we could see both the Atlantic Ocean and Cape Cod Bay from the car. There were large banks of sand along the highway and my father explained that these were sand dunes and were to be found in this part of the Cape.

At last we arrived in Provincetown where we were to visit my aunt for a weekend. We drove along Commercial Street, a very narrow street, and the town's main thoroughfare. We finally came to my aunt's home, a large white house set back from the streets and surrounded by an iron fence. The family was having lunch and after freshening up a bit after our long trip, we joined them in the dining room.

After lunch and a rest period on the lovely porch overlooking the harbor, we decided to go down to the wharf to watch the S.S. Steel Pier Dock. This boat carries passengers and freight between Boston and Provincetown. It comes in at two o'clock every day and stays two hours. This gives the sightseeing passengers an opportunity to see the many points of interest in the town. It is quite an unusual sight to see the little Portuguese boys dive off the wharf for pennies thrown into the water by the tourists. Some of these boys did not appear to be over seven or eight years old. Yet they dive ten or fifteen feet and come up smiling with the coin in their mouths.

After returning home, there was still time enough left for a swim before supper. We hurried into our bathing suits and left at once for the beach. The water was cold and the breakers very high. I was glad when it was time to leave for home. Supper was a delicious one of fresh fish. Afterwards we sat around and played games and sang until it was time to go to bed.

The next day being Sunday we attended Mass in the little white Church on the Hill. The pastor was Portuguese and a native of the town.

From the Church we drove to the Pilgrim's Monument. We climbed to the top, and from there got a wonderful view of the surrounding lighthouses and the harbors. As it was not yet time for dinner we decided to drive out to see the lighthouse at Race Point. We parked our car facing the ocean and from here we could see the larger boats far out at sea.

We got back to the house just in time for dinner. After dinner we went shopping in the village. The stores were small and were mostly gift shops. I was greatly impressed by the Town Crier Shoppe that contained antiques and souvenirs of Provincetown. It was outside this shop that the Town Crier dressed as a Pilgrim stood and rang a bell.

Monday morning came all too soon and we were ready to start home. It was nice going on this trip but it was also nice to be going home again after such a memorable trip.

SEA FEVER

I must down to the sea again, to the lonely sea and the sky,
And all I ask is a tall ship and a star to steer her by,
And the wheel's kick and the wind's song and the white sail's shaking,
And a gray mist on the sea's face and a gray dawn breaking.

OUR DIRECTOR

On entering our Senior year, a new curate was assigned to St. Mary's Parish. What a joy and privilege it has been to know and to work with Father Carberry!

It is impossible in such a limited space to relate fully the zeal and interest Father Carberry has shown in the advancement of our school. His untiring efforts on our behalf, combined with his friendly and priestly manner on all occasions, have served as a source of inspiration to us.

As director of school activities, he has won the hearts and full co-operation of every student. His inauguration of intramural football met with instant favor and engendered a keen rivalry among the classes. A social affair never passed, but what he was there to lend a helping hand in planning an enjoyable time for all. To educational programs also, he gave his valuable time and advice generously supervising the Oratorical and Debating Teams.

On terminating our school life here at St. Mary's, we, the students of the Class of '44 wish to offer our sincere thanks and deepest appreciation to Father Carberry for his encouragement and good counsel rendered us during our Senior Year.

OUR COACHES

Since football was not carried on to any great extent this year, the pupils looked eagerly forward to the winter months and the popular game of basketball under Coach Joe Hickey.

Mr. Hickey belongs to the Alumni of our school and while a student established himself as an all-around athlete and seemed destined to reach greater heights in athletics upon leaving St. Mary's. However, a physical injury prevented Joe from immediate advancement.

Upon Joe's shoulders was placed a heavy burden when the basketball season arrived. With only two veterans, Joe had to work his boys hard and as a result he molded together a fast breaking team which developed rapidly as the season progressed. Joe terminated his coaching career at St. Mary's with two victories over Milford High, our esteemed rival.

With the coming of spring, Marty Lynch took over the coaching of the baseball team. Like Joe, Marty had to build for the future. Like Joe, too, he is a member of our Alumni and a worthwhile athlete in his student days. To these two, credit is due for whatever success St. Mary's has had in the Athletic Field. We, the Class of '44, pass on to our successors the responsibility of upholding the blue and the white in all athletic activities.

OUR BASKETBALL TEAM

IN ACTION

BASKET BALL

With Joe Hickey as coach, the Blue and White entered into their 1943-1944 basketball season. At the close of the year, they had to their credit ten victories and seven defeats.

To coach Hickey fell the task of rounding out a smooth working quintet with only two experienced players and a number of recruits. In this he succeeded, as attested by the Saints successful campaign and the two victories over Milford High which retained for the school the Alfred Alzerini trophy.

Members of the team taking part in the successful '43-44 season were: Aldo Stabile, Ray Edwards, Tommy Fitzgerald, Ray Duggan, and Captain "Chic" Sayles. Other members of the team were: Bill Luby, Tommy Hynes, Nelson Coley Bill McCarthy, Francis Morin, Bob McKearnan, Bill Kirly, Fred Collins, Paul Curran, Francis Hourihan, with Donald Sayles as manager.

The scores for the season were:

St. Mary's	28	Shrewsbury	35
St. Mary's	37	Blackstone	23
St. Mary's	33	Sacred Heart	24
St. Mary's	45	Columkille	22
St. Mary's	25	Upton	15
St. Mary's	37	Northbridge	50
St. Mary's	31	Uxbridge	33
St. Mary's	38	Sacred Heart	32
St. Mary's	34	Northbridge	36
St. Mary's	41	Columkille	29
St. Mary's	22	Uxbridge	41

The success of the season, although due in the greater part to the co-operation of the team was also due to the efforts of Captain "Chic" Sayles. In his guard position, he proved an aggressive player, storming under the basket and pouring the points in. He was a fighter and was always out to give his all for the team and the school.

"Chic", the class of '44 was proud to have you as a representative on the basketball court.

MILFORD HIGH vs ST. MARY'S

HIGHLIGHTS IN BASKETBALL

MILFORD HIGH SHADES SAINTS IN OPENING GAME OF SERIES

Before 1000 fans at John C. Lynch auditorium, Milford High put on a determined and undeniable second - half surge that brought them a victory in the all important opening game. This is the first time that Milford High has copped the first game and brought to the Saints an opportunity to show the fighting spirit which they possess.

For the Red and White Tony "Skirts" Pilla was the main factor in a well earned victory. He scored fifteen points and was continually bothering the offense of the Saints. Capt. "Chic" Sayles was the bright light for the Saints tallying thirteen points and keeping a somewhat bewildered Blue and White offence together.

SAINTS EVEN SERIES IN GREAT BALL GAME

With Coach Joe Hickey's surprising quintet showing hippped dipped offence, which featured Capt. "Chic" Sayles who garnered twelve points and displayed a very sound but exciting floor game, the Saints evened up the Town Series before 1200 wild-eyed fans.

It looked like a different Blue and White outfit that time after time brought the fans to their feet with uncanny shorts and beautiful defense work. There was not the smoothness to the Milford High passing and their shooting was wild, at times.

This game brought forth one of the largest crowds ever to witness a game in the Lynch Auditorium.

ST. MARY'S HIGH TOWN CHAMPIONS

The Town Series on the night of March 10, 1944, Milford High and St. Mary's met for the third and final time, to decide the Town Championship.

And from the outset it was evident that the Saints would not relinquish the Town Championship which they have held for the past five years. It was the Saints' ability to control the Boards which enabled them to pour in rebounds while Milford High was forced to operate with a noticeable lack of coordination in their floor work.

To pick out an individual would be impossible, for the thronged assembly were very loud in their praise of the team's ability to function with perfect unity.

CHEER LEADERS

From a group of thirty two girls Father Carberry chose four Seniors and two Juniors to handle the cheer leader duties for the 1944 athletic season. They were Jean Madden, Louise Arsenault, Jean McCormack, Cecelia Summers, Jean Clement and Barbara Summers, as head cheer leaders.

Practice sessions were called, uniforms secured and on December thirty-first, the girls were ready to go to work. New cheers, pep songs, snappy routines and a student body with good lungs made the squad a successful one from the first game.

Before each Milford High game, a pep rally was called by Father Carberry and the cheer leaders took over. Teaching the student body new cheers and arousing spirit the girls once again showed their true colors.

The cheer leaders are to be congratulated for all their undertakings, but above all their fidelity and unfailing spirit. They were always first on hand to give praise in victory and first to console in defeat.

Although their part in athletics was a small one, they were always ready to give their all for S.N.H.

Albert Saylos '44
Barbara Summers '44

We wish to thank Father Carberry for all he did for us. We know, with his help, that the 1945 squad will be a most successful one. May the cheers for the blue and white, ring loud and long!

GIRL

SPORTS

A system of Intra - Mural sports for girls under the able direction of Father Thomas Carberry was inaugurated at St. Mary's during the past year.

Basketball teams were organized by members of the various classes for winter sports activity.

All sports were on a league basis, thereby presenting competitive recreation for girls. Thus the girls were able to prove themselves able athletes, as well as the boys.

The call was well answered by the girl members classes. The candidates were as follows:

Seniors

Captain Barbara Summers
Mary Kennedy
Helen Kittredge
Arlene Fenner
Marguerite Miller
Joannette Smith

The teams played fairly good ball considering that it was the first time inside basketball has been played by the fairer sex of St. Mary's.

The Sophomores were the champs of the school with the Freshmen close behind. Next came the Juniors and last but not least the Seniors.

OUR HEROES

On the afternoon of April 17, 1944, Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Rumse were notified by the War Department that their son, Henry, pharmacist mate 2/c, was killed in action Sunday April 16, somewhere in the South Pacific.

The news of Henry's death was brought to his many friends in the vicinity of Hopedale and Milford through the daily papers.

Henry Rumse was born April 28 1922 in Holyoke, Mass. He moved to Hopedale May 1, 1936, where his father conducts a poultry farm. He attended the Hopedale School for a short time but later enrolled as a pupil at St. Mary's High School.

The outstanding characteristic in Henry's life was his love for travel which led him to join the United States Navy, July 22, 1941, five months before the Pearl Harbor disaster.

His last visit home was in September 1943.

Duty to his country was innate in Henry for his father served in World War I and his mother saw duty overseas as a nurse in that same war.

Saturday, April 22, a Military Mass was celebrated at Sacred Heart Church, Hopedale with Rev. John P. Donahue as celebrant and Rev. Francis J. Pitroff Deacon and Rev. Thomas J. Carberry Sub-Deacon. The American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars were represented.

In God's great Eternity there will be found many more faithful boys. St. Mary's boys who have been trained to face whatever life presents will all face death with the same Christlike spirit as did Henry and we, his classmates, place him and all our heroes in the loving care of the Divine Providence of God.

Carmella Dalio

John Lawrence McTiernan, a member of the Class of '38, was reported missing in action after a raid over Roumania April 5, 1944. Shortly afterward, his parents received official notice that he had been taken prisoner by the Nazis.

Larry, as he was known by his many friends, was a musician of some standing. He played in St. Mary's orchestra and later conducted an orchestra of his own.

After leaving high school, he attended Worcester Trade and before he entered the Air Force, he was employed as a Pattern Maker by the Whitin's Machine Works.

Above all Larry's accomplishments he deserves the name of man for he always lived as a true Catholic man. We pray that when this carnage is over, he may again be reunited with his family and friends.

Ensign George Trudell, U. S. N. missing since the fall of Corrigidor is alive and well, according to a communication received by his wife at her home in North Adams. George was awarded the Purple Heart after the fall of Bataan and the Distinguished Service Cross for his heroism at Corrigidor. A brief letter was received from him during the past year, in which he told his parents and wife not to worry about him; he sent his love to them all, including George, Jr., familiarly known as "Butch". At present, he is still a prisoner of war in an internment camp in Japanese territory.

Sgt. Wendell Phillips, 1933, aerial gunner in a Flying Fortress, was lost in a raid over Berlin on March the thirteenth of this year. He was the recipient of citations for personal bravery under fire. These his parent cherish deeply, since at present Wendell is still listed as missing. We trust he succeeded in landing safely and that the future will disclose his security to his anxious relatives and friends.

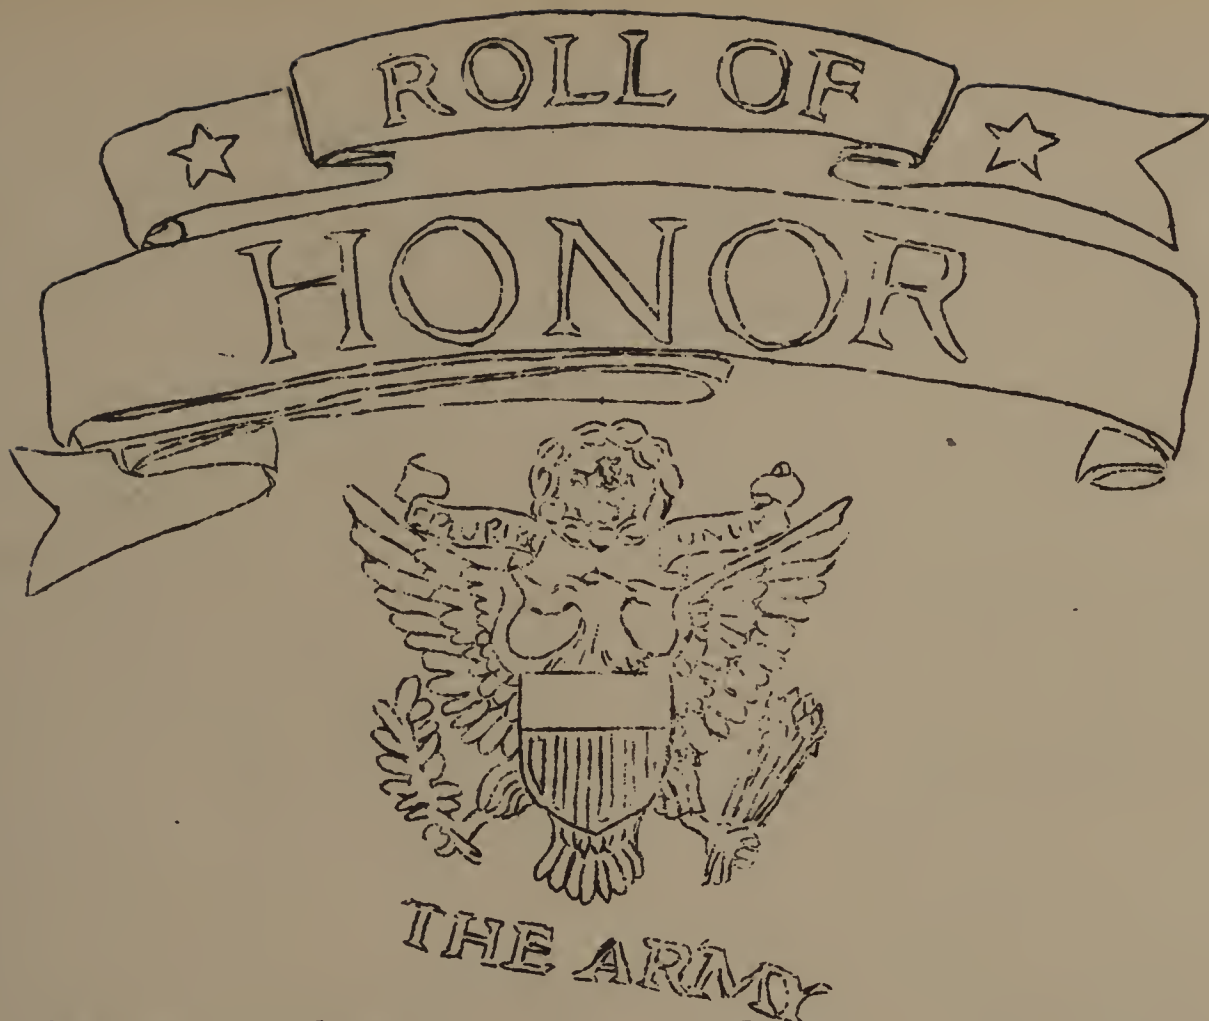

Sgt. Raymond Hickey of the Class of 1941, an aerial gunner on a bomber, was reported Missing in Action in the South Pacific during the month of May. Raymond was back to school for a visit before flying from America for the battle front. At that time he was cheerful and confident and happy in his work and the great cause he was fighting for. We hope and pray that Our Lady will protect and shelter these, our heroes, and shelter them under the folds of her blue mantle.

Dear Lady in Blue
We plead to you
For our heroes today.

Protect them, dear Mary
Our Wendell and Larry,
George, Henry and Ray.

Guide them, sustain them,
Encourage and save them,
With confidence we pray.

Valiant Sons of Mary,
Crusaders for Christ
On far-flung battle fields -
We of 1944 - salute you -
OUR HEROES!

To the men and women of our Alumni, serving our country, whose courage is our inspiration, this Roll of Honor is dedicated, in order that we, the Class of '44 in our small way may show these boys and girls who are sacrificing everything near and dear to them, how much we appreciate their vital interest in our behalf. We are proud of our men and women, who carry with them their Captain and King, Jesus Christ to far-flung battle lines. We are confident that they will bring honor and glory to their beloved Alma Mater.

May God keep these valiant soldiers of Christ in His love and may Our Lady keep her mantle of blue around them and bring them safely home.

SCHOOLS AT WAR

We hear a lot about post-war plans but we all know that these plans aren't worth anything if the coming invasion isn't successful. When the Continent is invaded we all want to feel that we had a part in the victory. It may be only a small part but every little thing we do now will be of the greatest help later. The question that has to be answered is "What is each individual person doing to help win this war?"

All over Milford can be seen posters urging the people to purchase War Bonds and Stamps. The hospitals are calling for helpers and many girls from both schools have answered the call by working there in the afternoons. As you go into Saint Mary's you see the Bulletin Board full of reports of the whereabouts of its former students now in the Service. If you should enter the typing room on a certain day of the month you can see the student preparing "The Bulletin", a newspaper published monthly and sent to the boys who graduated from St. Mary's School.

If you ask Sister Superior she could tell you the total amount of War Bonds and Stamps bought during two and a half school years of War. Sister could also tell you about the scrap drives we have conducted. One such drive was for Tin cans. Another was for silk stockings. The students answered both drives with a large amount of cans and stockings and helped to make the drives very successful.

Of course, I must mention more fully our daily sales of War Stamps and Bonds. Every day students in every room purchase these stamps and bonds. These sales amount to a substantial sum and we have the honor of being able to fly the Minute Man Flag.

This is only a small report of one school in America which is situated in an average American town. But if you multiply what St. Mary's is doing by the number of such schools in America then you can get a vague idea of what these schools which have gone to war are now doing. These schools are helping the men who are doing the actual fighting by supplying some of the large amounts of money needed to see the war to a successful finish. The children in these schools realize that the men are fighting to keep our American school method and all the other methods that are American. Our prayers now should be that these schools that are now at War will soon be at peace together with the rest of the world.

APPRECIATION

The Faculty

This is the eighth issue of "The Blue Mantle" We hope that it will prove entertaining and instructive to all its readers. It is the work of the students of the Senior Class assisted by the undergraduates. While every member of the class helped in some way or other, we felt that special recognition should be given to the boys and girls who worked long hours after school to make this book one of which we are justly proud.

First to the Associate Editors, Margaret Rossetti and Francis Nugent we extend our thanks and a word of congratulation for the business-like way in which they carried their arduous duties to a successful culmination. Not only did these two Seniors assume the full responsibility of overseeing all the parts of the book but they also assisted with the composition of the content and the making of the stencils.

The work of the advertising section was in charge of Richard Gallagher, Marguerite Miller, Arlene Fenner, and Barbara Summers. Arlene Fenner took charge of the solicitation of advertisements by mail and acknowledging all contributions. She was assisted by Marguerite Miller, who contacted the various societies in Milford. Joseph McKiernan; Barbara Summers, Arlene Fenner, Leona Mann, Francis Morin, Camilla Casali, Carmella Dalio, Patricia Molloy, Mary Sullivan, and Mary Ford did the artistic and stencils.

The task of checking and organizing the Alumni List was assigned to Assumpta Norcia. She not only made an earnest effort to contact every member of the Alumni Association but she also made and mimeographed all her stencils without any assistance. Only those who have ever tried to make up such a list knew what a stupendous task this is.

Pauline Blanchard took full charge of the Sponsor List. This included the sending of letters to members of the Alumni and friends of St. Mary's, acknowledging all donations, typing the stencils and running them on the mimeograph. Claire Dion assisted Pauline Blanchard.

Mary Kennedy '44 and Mary Sullivan '44 made all the plans for the pictures and arranged them for the printers doing such a creditable job on their dummy book that we received a commendation from the printers.

The write-ups on the picture sheets were done by Barbara Moroney Frances Dapkiewicz and Jeanne Madden.

Circulation was systematically managed by Joseph McKiernan '44 and Frances Flaherty '44. They made weekly collections and furnished receipts when the payments were complete.

"Team work always wins." This slogan worked wonders for the Class of '44 for there has been universal co-operation and an eagerness to help in any capacity. Therefore, while we have mentioned the foregoing, we wish to include in our gratitude every member of the class who gave any assistance whatever.

THE CARE OF RUPTURE

With an estimated 18,000,000 people in the U.S. that are ruptured, the HELPFUL care of these cases become a question of paramount interest, and effective care can be given.

As nearly all PRIMARY ruptures result from a weakened condition of the abdominal muscles, it would seem that any HELPFUL care must include the strengthening of these muscles in addition to the use of a mechanical device to assist NATURE in restoring normal conditions. Since 1859, COMMON SENSE TRUSSES have given most satisfactory results.
